WEIGHT, BLOOD PRESSURE DECREASING RAPIDLY

Atishi's weight and blood pressure are decreasing rapidly, the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) said in a statement. "Doctors have described the speed at which her blood sugar level, blood pressure and weight have decreased as dangerous," the party said. Atishi, however, has refused to be admitted to a hospital, saying she will continue with her fast until Haryana releases water

PM, 279 others sworn in as members of 18th Lok Sabha; Modi, Kharge spar on Emergency

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE opening day of the special session of the 18th Lok Sabha witnessed dramatic scenes on Monday as opposition leaders, including Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, waved copies of the Constitution when Prime Minister Narendra Modi walked up to take his oath as a member of the House.

Apart from Modi, several Cabinet ministers, including Amit Shah and Rajnath Singh, celebrities like Kangana Ranaut and 16 from NDA ally Telugu Desam Party (TDP) took their oaths. While 280 members were sworn in on Monday, the rest, including Rahul, will take their oath on Tuesday.

The country's linguistic diversity was on display as MPs took their oaths in Sanskrit, Hindi, Dogri, Bengali, Assamese, Gujarati and Odia, apart from English.

In his pre-session remarks, Modi took a swipe at the Congress over the Emergency, calling it a black spot on democracy when the Constitution was discarded. Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge was equally pungent in his response, accusing Modi of imposing an undeclared Emergency in the country in the last 10 years.

The session began on a combative note with the boycott by three Opposition MPs from a panel to assist pro-tem speaker Bhartruhari Mahtab. The Opposition was up in arms against the government for ignoring eight-term Lok Sabha member Kodikunnil Suresh for that post. President Droupadi Murmu had appointed a panel comprising K Suresh, TMC's Sudip Bandopadhyay and DMK's T R Baalu along with two other BJP MPs to assist Mahtab. However, the three Opposition MPs refused to be a part of the panel on Monday morning.

Most of the Congress MPs held a copy of the Constitution while taking their oath. Rahul sat along with SP chief Akhilesh Yadav and Ayodhya MP Awadhesh Prasad in the front row on the Opposition side.

The BJP poked the Congress with party chief J P Nadda writing to Kharge, questioning the "stoic silence" of his party on the recent hooch tragedy in Tamil Nadu. The coming days of the session are likely to see a belligerent Opposition taking on the NDA government on several issues, including the NEET-NET exam paper leak row, three criminal laws, Manipur violence and the recent train accident.

Oppn against Birla, NDA call on LS Speaker today

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP)-led National Democratic Alliance (NDA) is expected to announce its candidate for the Lok Sabha Speaker's post on Tuesday, hours before the nomination of candidates for the key post starts. According to highly placed sources, the NDA suggested the name of Om Birla, who was the Speaker in the previous Lok Sabha, as a consensus candidate for the Speaker's position but did not get support from the Opposition parties. Sources said Birla being the first choice is in line with the Narendra Modi-led government's theme of continuity in its third term.

While there is no official word yet from the NDA side on the consensus bid, BJP sources said three more names are being considered. "If everything goes as per plan and the Opposition doesn't oppose the continuation of Om Birla, the possibility of Birla's continuation is high. In case of disagreement, the BJP's East Champaran (Bihar) MP Radha Mohan Singh or the MP from Pali constituency (Rajasthan) P P Chaudhary might be announced as the NDA's candidate for LS Speaker," said a senior BJP source.

The name of Andhra BJP chief Daggubati Purandeswari is also doing the rounds.

Chaudhary is a senior lawyer also and chairperson of Parliamentary Standing Committee on Jan Vishwas Bill 2022. He had earlier served as MoS in the Ministry of Law and Justice in 2019 and MoS in the Ministry of Electronics and IT in 2017. He was also honoured with the Sansad Ratna award twice in 2015 and 2016.

Both Choudhary and Singh are experienced in Parliamentary affairs and enjoy rapport with the Opposition parties.

Purandeswari is the sister-in-law of TDP chief and Andhra Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu. The Lok Sabha Speaker's election will take place on June 26.

Police hint at security lapse in NEET paper delivery in J'khand

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi / Patna / Ranchi / Mumbai

EVEN as the CBI took over five new cases of alleged malpractices in NEET-UG in Bihar, Gujarat and Rajasthan, Bihar police on Monday said the question paper could have been leaked during its transportation in Jharkhand's Hazaribagh. Employees of Blue Dart in Hazaribagh told police that the boxes carrying question papers were transported to the SBI branch in the city using a hired e-rickshaw, in violation of protocol.

Flagging anomalies in NEET-UG held in Jharkhand, Hazaribagh NTA city coordinator and Oasis School principal Ehsan Ul Haque said the courier firm delivered the question paper on May 3, two days before the test. "The sensitive question paper was sent trusting a driver... the transport agency is under scanner for the paper leak," he said.

NSUI activists stage a protest at Jantar Mantar in Delhi on Monday | SHEKHAR YADAV

Meanwhile, the CBI took over five new cases that were being investigated by police in Gujarat, Rajasthan and Bihar on Monday, a day after it registered its own FIR in connection with the alleged irregularities in the exam.

In a separate development, the Anti-Terrorism Squad of Maharashtra police arrested a Zilla Parishad school teacher from Latur and registered a case against four persons for running a racket for those who can pay to crack NEET.

After taking over these new cases, the CBI will be probing a total of six cases pertaining to alleged irregularities in NEET-UG conducted on May 5, officials said. Barring the case from Bihar, the other four appear to be isolated incidents of impersonation and cheating by local officials, and candidates, they added.

Anganwadi workers stage a protest demanding that the state government start kindergarten classes in anganwadis, in Bengaluru on Monday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

LKG, UKG classes in anganwadi centres soon, says Hebbalkar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WOMEN and Child Welfare Minister Laxmi Hebbalkar on Monday said Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has approved a proposal to start lower and upper kindergarten classes in anganwadi centres.

She told reporters here that anganwadi centres will be upgraded and children will be admitted to LKG and UKG classes. The CM has issued a directive to constitute a committee of experts to look into the proposal and suggest recommendations. The purpose of this initiative is to provide good food and quality education to children at the pre-primary level.

The minister said LKG and UKG classes will be started in anganwadi centres across the state, excluding Kalyan Karnataka. "Our aim is to provide quality education and nutritious food to children. They will also be given uniforms, books and bags through the Women and Child Welfare Department," she said.

The minister said transfer certificates (TCs) will be issued to LKG and UKG students like other government schools. In regular government schools, montessori classes will be started. There was opposition from anganwadi workers to this. "This is why we decided to upgrade the anganwadi centres, where along with Kannada, there is a proposal to teach English to children," she added.

"Of the total anganwadi teachers, over 9,000 are graduates and 1,500 are postgraduates. With these teachers, we will be able to provide quality education to children," Hebbalkar said.

Centre imposes stockholding limits on wheat

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Monday imposed a stock limit on wheat to reduce hoarding of the grain and stablise its prices.

The stock limit will apply to all wholesalers, retailers, big chain retailers and processors in all states and Union Territories until March 31, 2025.

The stock limit for traders or wholesalers is 3,000 metric tonnes (MT). For retailers, it is 10 MT for each of the outlets while for big chain retailers, it is 10 MT at each of their outlets and 3,000 MT at all their depots. For millers and processors, the stock limit is 70% of the monthly installed capacity multiplied by the remaining months of FY 2024-25.

"The government is open to all options if the stock limit would not cool down the price such as by reducing import duty and would soon think to dump wheat in the open market through open market sales scheme," said Sanjeev Chopra, secretary, Department of Food and Public Distribution in the consumer affairs ministry.

The minimum support price of wheat is ₹2,275, but the grain's price in the open market is hovering around ₹2,500.

Chopra dispelled worries about supplies. The stock limit comes amid claims of bumper production of the grain in the current Rabi Marketing Season. "I want to dispel the shortage of wheat in the country... we want prices of wheat to be stable," Chopra said. He added that the decision was taken to prevent market speculations and hoarding of the grain.

K'taka bans artificial colours in kebabs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

RESPONDING to widespread concern over health risks associated with consumption of artificially-coloured kebabs, the health department has banned use of such additives in vegetarian, chicken and fish kebabs sold across the state.

The decision comes in view of the findings that kebab samples collected from 39 outlets contained unsafe levels of artificial colours such as Sunset Yellow, a synthetic orange dye, and Carmoisine, a dark red colouring agent.

"Such additives, as per the Food Safety and Standards Act, 2006, and The Food Safety and Standards (Food Products Standards and Food Additives) Regulations, 2011, pose serious health risks," the department's order issued on June 21 stated.

Laboratories reported that about eight kebab samples were found to be non-compliant with food safety standards due to the presence of artificial colours, the order said.

The order stated that penalties for violations, ranging from imprisonment for a minimum of seven years up to life term, along with fines up to Rs 10 lakh will be imposed.

ILLEGAL SAND MINING

M'luru's Pavoor Uliya island 'disappearing' slowly

DIVYA CUTINHO @ Mangaluru

PAVOOR Uliya island on the outskirts of Mangaluru is slowly "disappearing" because of rampant illegal sand mining. Around 50 families are now living in fear there.

Under the slogan, "Save island, protect people's life", members of Catholic Sabha of Mangaluru and a delegation from like-minded organisations visited the island on Monday.

Fr Manohar D'souza, parish priest of Infant Jesus Church, said, "Those involved in illegal sand mining must be booked for murder. Our pleas to the district administration and departments concerned did not receive any positive response."

Gilbert D'souza, a resident of Pavoor Uliya, said people of the island recently chased away those extracting sand. But the sand mafia has been threatening them since then. "The 100-acre island has shrunk significantly because of illegal sand mining. When AB Ibrahim was deputy commissioner of Dakshina Kannada, illegal sand mining was stopped at Valachil, Pavoor, Gadigadde and behind Sahyadri College. The sand mafia is back now with hundreds of workers extracting and transporting sand from the island. We need a permanent solution to this problem," he said.

Activist Muneer Katipalla, who was part of the delegation, sought a permanent solution to illegal sand mining at Pavoor Uliya.

Goa murder: Second report says B'luru CEO 'mentally fit'

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

NEARLY six months after Suchana Seth, CEO of a Bengaluru-based AI firm, allegedly killed her four-year-old son in a Goa hotel and a chargesheet filed against her two months ago, a second medical opinion has revealed that she is "mentally fit".

Besides, a forensic report has revealed that Seth wrote the note that was recovered from the suitcase in which she had stuffed her son's body and took it to Bengaluru when she was caught.

After Seth's father demanded that the Mental Health Authority re-evaluate Suchana's mental health, the children's court in Goa approved his plea in March. In February, her father submitted an application contesting the findings of the Institute of Psychiatry and Human Behaviour (IPHB) in Bambolim, which had determined that she was mentally stable.

Sources said the note on tissue paper was sent to Pune Central Forensic Science Laboratory. In it, Seth stated that her son was against her former husband Venkat Raman visiting him. "My kid pleaded with me not to hand him over to my abusive, violent former spouse. I'm being threatened with a jail sentence by my ex-husband and the family court judge if I don't send my 4-year-old kid against his will," she stated.

DENGUE CASES SPIKE BY 60% IN STATE

Health dept stresses on need to control mosquito breeding, asks citizens to cooperate

RISHITA KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Health Department has recorded nearly a 60% increase in dengue cases in the first half of this year, compared to 2023. The total cases rose from 2,003 till June 2023, to 4,886 positive cases this year. Of the total, 1,230 cases were recorded within the BBMP limits, while Bengaluru Rural and Bengaluru Urban districts recorded a total of 30 cases.

Health Commissioner Randeep D told TNIE that to improve surveillance, health staff are deployed to towns on the first and third Friday of every month, which will help reduce infection and educate the general public through Information, Education, and Communication.

The health commissioner noted that the long dry spell has led to a water shortage, prompting increased water storage practices, which in turn have intensified mosquito breeding. Additionally, the community's resistance to the application of larvicide in storage containers due to water shortage has exacerbated the problem. Intermittent rain has also resulted in outdoor breeding of the insects, apart from the increase in testing of suspected dengue fever cases, compared to the previous year.

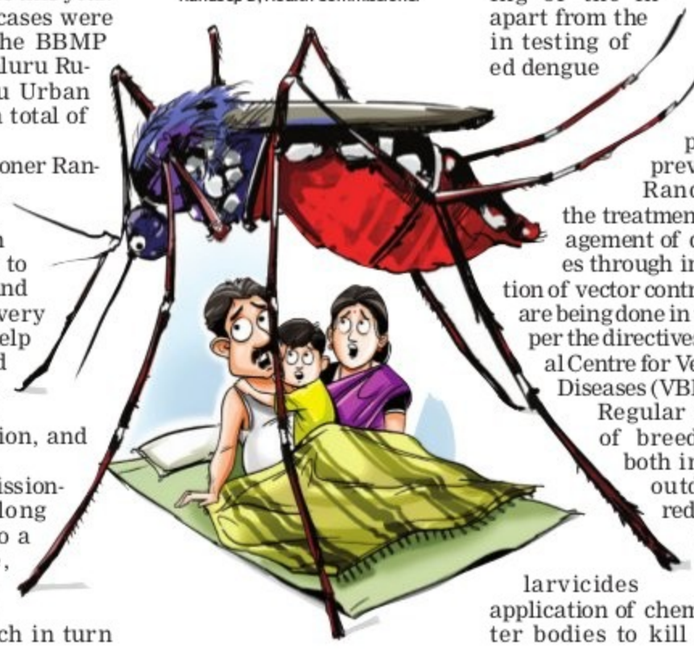
> Randeep D, Health Commissioner



Randeep said the treatment and management of dengue cases through implementation of vector control methods are being done in the state, as per the directives of National Centre for Vector Borne Diseases (VBD).

Regular inspection of breeding sites, both indoors and outdoors, and reducing these sources through larvicides -- regular application of chemical to water bodies to kill immature forms of mosquitoes or emptying containers play a key role in preventing mosquito breeding, he said, and highlighted that health staff and ASHA workers are regularly carrying out the 'Source Reduction' activity in both urban and rural settings. The process is then cross-checked by the District VBD Control Officer and the Medical Officer of the PHC.

Randeep ensured that testing kits, larvicide, and fogging chemicals are available in sufficient quantities at the appropriate levels, and that the District VBD Control Officers are instructed to ensure their timely utilisation. "Necessary guidelines are being issued to districts, and concerted efforts are being made to keep the spread of dengue under control," the health commissioner added.

Randeep further emphasised that it is crucial that citizens cooperate with health authorities by conducting regular inspections of water storage containers at home, and ensure proper disposal of solid waste to prevent mosquitoes from breeding.

The water body will be desilted, and its pathway and fencing will be impoved

Ulsoor Lake to be developed at a cost of ₹20 crore

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru:

ULSOOR Lake, which keeps getting polluted due to sewage inflow from houses in Marappa Garden, Chinnappa Garden and other areas in the upper catchment areas of Shivajinagar and parts of Sarvagnanagar, will be taken up for development at a cost of Rs 20 crore.

According to Shivajinagar MLA Rizwan Arshad, who took part in the groundbreaking ceremony for new fencing at Ulsoor Lake, the water body holds historical significance as it was built by Kempe Gowda II in the 16th century, and was renovated during the British regime. "The lake needs attention and will be desilted. We will be holding discussions with the Chief Commissioner of BBMP. This is the only large water body in the central business district of Bengaluru, hence all efforts will be made to develop it," said Arshad. The MLA said the lake already has a kalyani, and spots in the premises where rituals are performed will be developed so that Hindu community members do not face inconvenience.

Executive Engineer, Lakes division, Nithya J, who is monitoring the work, said the Palike and an agency involved in the development of the lake, have desilted the wetland, added floating islands and four aerators to improve oxygen level. She said floating materials and sewage had spoiled the lake over the years.

"We have conducted a bathymetric survey with 80 per cent accuracy. Before desilting the 88-acre water body, dewatering will be done and the water level brought down to about 2metres. Silt will be removed only where it is needed. The process may take up to one year," she said.

Work will involve pathway improvement, fencing and development of three islands in the lake and two islands in the 8-acre wetland. The Palike's lake division will also install a sluice gate to regulate water flow, she said. "Gabion, the process in which a steel mesh is used to make a wall-like structure, and filled with stones and concrete on the edge of the bund, will ensure the water holding capacity will not decrease. This is long-lasting and has an ecological advantage," she added. Similar work has already been executed at Sankey Tank in West Zone.

Lake department officials say that only the tendering process is pending and once the agency is fixed, work will take off.

HC declines to interfere with Ekalavya award policy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has declined to interfere with the state government's policy for conferment of the Ekalavya awards.

"The ball of conferment of awards has not gone out of play for this court as a referee to interfere and tell the state how to manage conferment of awards," said Justice M Nagaprasanna while dismissing the petition filed by a young roller skater.

The petitioner questioned the 2015 guidelines issued by the state for the award/allocation of marks for participation in the national championship on par with marks allotted for participation in the senior national championship.

The petitioner is a champion in roller skating, a non-olympic sport. Seniors or juniors who participate in Olympic events are given higher recognition. He has not challenged the differentiation of Olympic and non-Olympic sporting events, but the bifurcation of senior and junior on the grounds that the state kept away from consideration of junior-level national championships by 100 per cent and awarding nominal marks for juniors.

The court, however, said no fault can be found with the bifurcation of marks for seniors or juniors.

Bar codes on biomedical waste bags will help track accurate disposal

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) has proposed that bar codes be put on all biomedical waste (BMW) bags, to ensure that an accurate amount of biomedical waste reaches the incinerators.

There are many loopholes in the amount of waste generated and how much reaches the processing units. At any given point of time, large quantities are dumped in landfills, by roadsides, on city outskirts and even in water bodies.

A senior KSPCB official said there is a lack of coordination between the health department, city corporations and Pollution Control Board. The exact waste generated and disposed of is not accounted for. There is no single-window system where details of health institutes are maintained. A single-window system has been created for clearing proposals to set up industries, but not for waste management and disposal.

"In case of BMW, we have proposed a mechanism where each waste bag will have a bar code, it will have details of the hospital, total number of beds, the incinerator which is attached to the hospital when waste was loaded in the transport vehicle. Details of the transport vehicle will also be noted, and each vehicle will be GPS-enabled to track its location," the official said.

The official added that there are many healthcare facilities in the state which are not disposing of the exact quantity. Many health centres have expanded their infrastructure, but have not shared details of an increase in beds with KSPCB. There are many unregistered medical centres generating large quantities of waste. "All these need to be brought under one umbrella," the official added.

WASTE DISPOSAL

48,431 registered healthcare facilities in the state

77,876kg generated per day, but 66,943kg treated per day in 25 incinerators

In Bengaluru Urban, 38,768 kg of BMW generated

To track vehicles and check pollution, Board is also setting up a command and control room at the head office on Church Street. Movement of waste transportation vehicles attached to KSPCB will be monitored live. Pollution level of all air quality monitoring centres, including mobile vehicles, will also be tracked live at the centre

BWSSB VALVE CHAMBERS POSE DANGER TO MOTORISTS

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

RESIDENTS of 100 ft Road in Vajarahalli are facing a peculiar problem. The Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) is busy constructing valve chambers with cement on the road for water supply pipelines that run below it. But these chambers are at a height compared to the road and have been causing two-wheeler riders to fall.

The work is part of the Cauvery Water Supply Scheme Stage V which aims to provide 750 MLD of water to 110 villages in the peripheral areas of the city by July.

This busy, 8-km road connects Banashankari VIth Stage to Kanakapura Road.

'Unscientifically designed'

A local resident who uses the road often, Rajan Govinda, told The New Indian Express, "These chambers occupy up to 30 ft of this busy road. Many vehicle users have fallen and suffered injuries as these chambers have suddenly come up in the middle of the road. They are 4 inches to 1.6 feet high. Someone not familiar with the road ends up hitting it and falling off. It is a real problem at night when streetlights do not work. It has been designed unscientifically."

Contractor Megha Engineering and Infrastructure is carrying out the work.

The uneven water valve chambers pose a risk to motorists in Vajarahalli

Changemakers of Kanakapura Secretary Vajapeyam K Srivatsa said, "Work here began 1.5 years ago and it is still going on. These chambers still being laid pose a danger to riders."

BWSSB Assistant Executive Engineer Sandeep said, "These chambers have butterfly valve chambers which are required to regulate the water supply. We also have air chambers to ensure that air does not block the flow of water. We will see what best can be done for the residents."

BWSSB Assistant Executive Engineer Raghavendra assured it would be set right. "I have spoken to the residents here and assured them that I would rectify it. The contractor has been asked to level the chambers. It will be done in a week."

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

25th June : Tuesday is here again. I don't know about you, but I'm never quite sure what to make of today. It's not a day of fresh starts like Monday, but neither is it a day when you can look back and see how much you've achieved, like Wednesday or Thursday. It's a sort of middling, nothing sort of a day. But no less enjoyable for that!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Current planetary aspects will keep you on the go, and you'll be feeling intensely personal about a number of issues, including your finances, career and any property negotiations. Remember to keep up with charitable work, for it's here that your future lies.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
If career plans are afoot, please devote some of your time to checking up on current progress. It's a fine moment to ask for assistance, mainly because people around you are in a constructive mood. Put a personal question on the back-burner for now.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You may have had enough of hard work, but something seems to keep you going. If there are no new career demands today, feel free to throw your energy into a creative or leisure activity. An older friend or relation needs advice which only you can give, so utter your words of wisdom when the time is right.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Later in the week the planets will be offering you additional financial inducements. Be prepared, and take decisive action now, including broadening your horizons and enhancing the quality of your life. Even in love, put your doubts to one side.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Family members will almost certainly be in a difficult mood and their desire for stability is bound up with much deeper emotional questions. Events which take place now are sufficient to force you out of a rut, and could even make sure that partners recognise that you were right all the time.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Domestic priorities should take a back seat now that professional ambitions are intervening. It seems most important that you continue discussions, although do not expect decisions to be finalised yet. In fact, it may be another two or even three months before certainty is restored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The planetary indications are contradictory, and you may be in something of a quandary. There'll be domestic tension and a need for a rapid decision, but there are sufficient positive developments to keep your spirits up. You've still got too much on your mind though, and that won't change for another couple of weeks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You may expect good fortune in property matters, whether buying or selling. Fortunately, you have the right balance of optimism and commonsense, all of which should be sufficient to get you through the day successfully. At work take the long-term view and concentrate on quietly building up experience.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Relationships are always important to you. Indeed, it's often said that in spite of your independent spirit, you can't function properly unless you have someone to co-operate with. In many ways, current prospects could not be better. It's all a question of doing things in the right order.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Mars may be sweeping you off your feet, sending a sudden burst of energy in your direction. Some of you may be exhausted by increased stresses and strains, and all of you must remember that partners and associates won't automatically accept your decisions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You're at the centre of affairs and you have everything to hope for from the future. The only drawback could be your suspicion that someone else is trying to do you down. Such fears are probably unfounded, but by recognising them you'll be able to find reassurance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Accept that loved ones have the right to decide their own futures, but also be aware that there is someone who holds the key to your own affairs. You're not always sure what you need from a relationship, but now is the time to come to terms with your desires.

Fearing ire of Darshan fans, 4 accused will move to Tumakuru jail

Actor's wife, son meet him in B'luru prison

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE four accused who had surrendered before the police in connection with the brutal murder of 33-year-old S Renukaswamy, a medical store staffer in Chitradurga, will be shifted to Tumakuru prison on security grounds.

V Karthik alias Kappe (27) and R Keshavmurthy (27) of Girinagar; L Nikhil Nayak (21) of BG Road; and Ravi Shankar alias Ravi (32) of Chitradurga, will be shifted to the Tumakuru prison. The prosecution on Saturday requested the 24th Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate (ACMM) to shift some of the accused to the Tumakuru prison, citing that they could be attacked by other accused and some fans of Darshan at the Bengaluru Central Prison in Parappana Agrahara.

The judge on Monday directed the police to shift the four accused to Tumakuru, and they were expected to be shifted on Monday night. The four had surrendered before the Kamakshipalya police on June 10, claiming to have murdered the victim over a financial matter. The four reportedly spilled actor Darshan's name, yielding to thorough interrogation. Since the four revealed Darshan's name, the police are not ruling out the possibility of an attack on them in jail.

Meanwhile, Darshan's wife Vijayalakshmi and son Vineesh met him at the Bengaluru Central Prison on Monday. Actor Vinod Prabhakar, son of late actor Tiger Prabhakar, also met him. A few fans had also arrived near the prison to meet the actor, but were denied permission to advance.

Vinod, after meeting Darshan, told the media that the last time he met the actor was at a party. "I came to know about the incident from the media. When I met Darshan in jail, we just shook hands and did not speak anything. I was just given two minutes to meet him," he added.

Darshan fan to get actor's prison no. '6106' for his car

MYSURU: In an unprecedented display of fandom, ardent followers of actor Darshan, currently embroiled in a murder case, are pushing the boundaries of devotion. Now, a fan has decided to immortalise his admiration by incorporating Darshan's prison number, 6106, into his daily life. Dhanush, a resident of Bannur taluk in Mysuru, who is all set to register his vehicle with the RTO, bearing the number 6106, in a tribute to his beloved actor. In a video which is viral on social media, Dhanush, who claims to be a junior artiste in films, says from now '6106' is not the prison number of Darshan but is a 'lucky' number for his fans and would soon get this number registered for his vehicle with the RTO. ENS

NOTING that the accused cannot be tried in a single crime registered next year for different distinct offences committed previous years as it is necessary to register separate First Information Reports (FIRs) for those past offences and file separate chargesheets, the Karnataka High Court quashed the criminal proceedings against three accused, chargesheeted in 2021 in a drug case.

The three accused were actor Archana Galrani aka Sanjana Galrani, realtor Shivaprakash aka Chippi and Adithya Mohan Agarwal aka Adithya Agarwal. Justice Hemant Chandangoudar on March 25 allowed their petitions challenging the proceedings against them and released the order recently.

The court said the accused have been chargesheeted for the offences related to 2015, 2018 and 2019. If the FIR was registered in connection with the offences committed between April 11, 2020 and September 4, 2020, the petitioners cannot be tried for the earlier offences of 2015, 2018 and 2019, because of Section 219(1) of CrPC. It was necessary for the police to register FIRs for those past offences and file chargesheets after investigation, as ruled by the coordinate bench of the high court in Virendra Khanna's case on January 17, 2022. The continuation of criminal proceedings against the petitioners will be an abuse of the process of law, and the impugned proceedings are quashed, the court said.

Arguing for Adithya Mohan Agarwal and Archana Galrani, senior advocate Hasmath Pasha contended that the accused were not named in the FIR and no materials were recovered from them, but their statements were recorded for the past incidents between 2015 and 2019, for which no FIR was registered.

Advocate Amar Correa argued that no offence was disclosed against Shivaprakash in the FIR, registered based on the statement of one BK Ravishankar. No materials were recovered from him and was not subjected to chemical analysis to establish that he had consumed drugs, he pleaded.

Minor among 3 murdered in city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THREE people, including a minor, were murdered in separate incidents in the city on Sunday. In the first, a 17-year-old was murdered in a deserted area in Abbigere in Gangammanagudi police station limits, early Sunday morning. The deceased was identified as Manjunath, a resident of Abbigere and an SSLC dropout.

Police said unidentified miscreants attacked Manjunath with a rod, leaving him with severe head injuries. Local residents, who found his body, alerted police around 11am Sunday. Investigations are on to ascertain the reason behind the murder, a police officer said, adding that a love angle is suspected to be the reason. In another incident, a 37-year-old man was stabbed to death by his stepfather on Sunday night, over a domestic row in their residence in Doddagollarahatti in Jnanabharathi police station limits. The deceased, Anand, worked as a painter, and the accused was identified as Puttaswamy.

Police said that around 10.30pm Sunday, Anand and Puttaswamy had an argument over payment of house rent. Puttaswamy, who was drunk, started the argument, and stabbed his son with a kitchen knife. On hearing his screams, neighbours rushed Anand to a nearby hospital, where he was declared brought dead. The duo often argued over domestic issues.

In another incident, a 38-year-old man was killed by his neighbours, who smashed his head with a stone on Sunday evening. The incident happened near a park close to KC General Hospital in Malleswaram. The deceased was identified as Panneer Selvam, a resident of Malleswaram and a native of Tamil Nadu, who worked as a construction worker. The accused are Prema Kumar (21) and Madan (21), both residents of Malleswaram.

Police said that Selvam had abused Kumar's mother during an argument at their residence on Sunday, following which Kumar took the victim near the park on the pretext of resolving the issue and smashed his head with a stone, with the help of his friend Madan. Police checked CCTV footage and nabbed the duo.

HC stays investigation against Ajeet Bharti

BENGALURU: The Karnataka High Court on Monday stayed the probe against YouTuber Ajeet Bharti in connection with a complaint registered against him by KPCC for allegedly posting a controversial video about Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on his 'X' account. Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the interim order after hearing the petition filed by Bharti questioning the legality of the case registered against him for offences punishable under Sections 153A and 505(2) of the IPC. Senior advocate Aruna Shyam M quoted two newspaper reports which indicated that former Congress leader Acharya Pramod Krishnam had claimed that Gandhi promised his close aides that the Ayodhya temple verdict would be overturned if the party gets elected to power.

CM hands BBA student's murder case to CID

BENGALURU: CM Siddaramaiah has instructed the CID to take over the investigation of the murder of BBA student Prabuddha (21), which was reported on May 15 in Subramanyapura police limits. The victim's mother, KR Soumya, a social worker, met the CM with other social workers and appealed to him to entrust the CID to probe her daughter's murder. In her plea, Soumya alleged that the police was uncooperative, and displayed deliberate negligence, attempting to destroy evidence, and colluding with the accused, who issued threats to her. The victim, a second-year BBA student, was found dead in the bathroom of her residence. Later, the police arrested her brother's minor friend. The murder was over money, which the accused had allegedly stolen from her purse.

Goa keen on Mahadayi basin inspection before reconstitution of panel

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR
@ Belagavi

WHILE the Union Government is expected to reconstitute the Mahadayi Progressive River Authority for Water and Harmony (PRAWAH) and appoint a new chairman, it has come to light that the Goa government is keen on getting an inspection of the Mahadayi basin done by the outgoing chairman PM Scott.

However, informed sources said the Goa government's tripartite proposal for an inspection of the basin is unlikely given the Centre's ongoing process for the reconstitution of PRAWAH.

In a desperate attempt, sources said, the Goa government has decided to send a reminder to the incumbent chairman Scott requesting him to call for a meeting and also hold the inspection before the committee is dissolved.

Before the end of the chairman's term by the end of June, the Goa government wants a meeting of the committee to be held, at least.

It may be noted that the Jal Shakti Ministry constituted Mahadayi PRAWAH to enable compliance and implementation of the final award given by the Mhadei Water Dispute Tribunal in 2018. The PRAWAH had its first and only meeting in February in Goa, wherein the authority was of the view to resolve the issue "amicably".

Sources said the Goa government believes Karnataka had commenced work of deep channels at Kankumbi to allow water to flow into the conduit built in the area in March and that was why it has approached PRAWAH seeking its intervention and demanding a site inspection to ascertain, what it alleges, the violations.

On Goa's insistence, PRAWAH in April, accepted the request for a joint inspection to study the river basin and had asked all three riparian states — Goa, Karnataka and Maharashtra — to communicate the dates, as per their flexibility, to conduct the inspection.

Sources further added that Goa had also proposed the dates for inspection in April. However, the Goa government did not receive any communication from PRAWAH thereafter.

Demand for more DCMs creates friction between Congress camps

Cold war between loyalists of Siddu & DKS comes to fore after LS polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH loyalists of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah renewing their demand for the creation of more deputy CM posts in the government, Rural Development & Panchayat Raj Minister Priyank Kharge on Monday lashed out at his own party leaders. With this, the cold war between the loyalists of Siddaramaiah and DCM DK Shivakumar has come to the fore after Lok Sabha elections.

"Those who want additional DCM posts should go to the party high command or Congress Legislative Party and make their demands, instead of speaking to the media which cannot help them. If all ministers are made deputy chief ministers, then all the communities will get representation. Lok Sabha elections have just ended and the Congress has got 4-5 seats less than expected. There is a need for ministers who took responsibility in the election to introspect," Priyank Kharge said. He was skeptical whether the creation of more DCM posts will resolve the issue of social justice and help strengthen the party.

Shivakumar's younger brother DK Suresh, former Bengaluru Rural MP, also joined issue, saying there are more than eight leaders in the party who deserve to become DCMs. "If the party decides, it's good to have another 8-10 DCMs. Eight-time MLA Ramalinga Reddy, Dr G Parameshwara who ran the party as KPCC president for eight years, Satish Jarkiholi, Eshwar Khandre, MB Patil, Zameer Ahmed Khan under minority quota, Krishna Byre Gowda and N Chaluvarayaswamy as Vokkaligas, Dinesh Gundu Rao and RV Deshpande as Brahmins could be made DCMs to deliver social justice," he said with sarcasm. Cooperation Minister KN Rajanna had on Sunday reiterated in Bagalkot that more DCMs should be appointed, giving representation to different communities. Housing Minister Zameer Ahmed Khan had advocated the same.

With PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi, an ST Nayaka leader, camping in the national capital, speculation is rife that he may be lobbying for the KPCC president's post, as DCM Shivakumar is likely to vacate the post soon, according to sources. In that case, Rajanna will also be in the race for the DCM post from ST Nayaka community, they added.

People, party will decide if I have to contest: DKS

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

THE mind game between Deputy Chief Minister and KPCC president DK Shivakumar and Union Minister of Steel and Heavy Industries HD Kumaraswamy over the Channapatna bypoll has begun.

On Monday, Shivakumar clarified that his contesting the Assembly by-election, necessitated by MLA Kumaraswamy getting elected to the Lok Sabha, will depend on people's wish and the party high command's decision. Also, a party committee set up by him to oversee the bypolls, including the selection of candidates, will take a call, he said.

"In the bypolls, our MLA will get elected from here and we will allot residential sites to at least 10,000 people and will provide Rs 1 lakh loan to 10,000 people to start small businesses, rear cattle and also drill borewells," Shivakumar said. He was speaking at an official public outreach programme Jana Spandana with the slogan 'bagilige bantu sarkara, sevege irali sahakara' (government at your doorsteps, cooperate to serve you) at Kodamballi Zilla Panchayat.

Kumaraswamy had recently asked what was Shivakumar's contribution to Channapatna. To that, Shivakumar replied that he had given 18,000 transformers free to as many farmers when he was energy minister.

At the Jana Spandana event, kiosks were set up to help people register, especially for the five guarantees, while officials addresses their grievances. Shivakumar claimed that the Gruha Lakshmi scheme has reached 94% of eligible households, while 64,000 women heads of families in Channapatna are getting Rs 2,000 per month. "Around 7-8% are yet to be covered and action will be taken. We have delivered the applications to 12,000 families," he said.

Shivakumar has been touring Channapatna extensively as his younger brother DK Suresh polled a whopping 85,000 votes in the Channapatna Assembly segment in the Lok Sabha polls. He promised local residents of all help, including rejuvenation of temples in villages. "Don't hesitate to seek help even if you did not vote for us in the Lok Sabha polls," Shivakumar told people of Channapatna.

Suresh, who too was present, ruled himself out of the contest. "It has just been a month since people rejected me (losing from the Bangalore Rural LS seat) and if I contest the bypolls again, people will laugh at me," he said.

Statements of DK brothers came just a day after Kumaraswamy ruling out his son Nikhil contesting from the seat. He hinted at fielding former minister and BJP MLC CP Yogeshwar as the BJP-JDS alliance candidate.

THE 42nd Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate (ACMM) court on Monday remanded former Hassan MP Prajwal Revanna, who is facing charges of rape and sexual abuse, in 14 days judicial custody. The Special Investigation Team (SIT) did not seek further extension of his custody.

The SIT, on June 19, had taken him to custody in connection with the sexual abuse case. Judge KN Shivakumar of special court for trial of cases against sitting and former MLAs/MPs remanded Prajwal in judicial custody until July 8. During the hearing, Prajwal complained about gastric issues. To this the judge ordered the SIT officials to look after his health issues. Prajwal was sent to Bengaluru Central Prison at Parappana Agrahara with elaborate security.

Meanwhile, a city civil and sessions court reserved the order on Prajwal's bail petition till June 26. Prajwal had filed the bail application in connection with the case registered against him by the Holenarasipura Town police.

The SIT, probing three cases against the suspended JDS leader, have had Prajwal in their custody for 22 days so far. The 33-year-old was arrested in a case registered against him at Holenarasipura Town police station in Hassan, and two other cases were registered against him in Bengaluru. The SIT had taken him to police custody in the three cases.

The sexual harassment cases came to light after pen drives containing explicit videos allegedly involving Prajwal were reportedly circulated in Hassan. The first case against him was filed on April 28, 2024, when a 47-year-old woman had filed a sexual harassment complaint case against him. He was arrested on May 31 soon after he landed at Bengaluru's Kempegowda International Airport from Munich, Germany.

Hampi By Night Show on hold as ₹70L power bill yet to be cleared

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR
@ Hosapete

THE well-appreciated "Hampi By Night" show at the Unesco-recognised heritage site, Hampi has stopped for the last two months as authorities are yet to clear electricity bills of Rs 70 lakh.

Officials at a private company that operates the show told The New Indian Express that they have already cleared the payments. They also said the outdoor show has been stopped because of monsoon setting in.

This means, the payment is yet to be cleared by officials at the tourism department and Hampi World Heritage Area Management Authority (HWHAMA).

The 'Hampi By Night' is run during weekends and on special days. As the bills are pending, the Gulbarga Electricity Supply Company (GESCOM) has served a notice to the district administration. Now, the district administration is planning to take over the entire project.

Krishna Kumar, CEO, Innovative Lighting System – which operates the show, said, "We have paid our share and we clear bills every month. The heritage site has five transformers -- two of 500 kWh capacity and three of 250 kWh. We have used only the two 500 kWh transformers. On an average, 6,000 tourists enjoy the show every month. We don't know about the show being taken over by the district administration."

On Gescom sending a notice, a senior district administration official said, "We will write to the state government and the authorities concerned. We will solve the issue as soon as possible and resume the show. During the Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's visit to Vijayanagara recently, we told him about the issue. We are waiting for further instructions from the government."

BJD sheds 10-yr policy, to take on NDA as oppn

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bhubaneswar

THE bridge seems to have been burnt between the BJD and BJP post elections. Following the debacle in the Lok Sabha and Assembly polls, the regional outfit has decided to shed its 10-year-long policy of issue-based support to the BJP-led NDA government at the Centre and play the role of Opposition.

Former chief minister and BJD supremo Naveen Patnaik on Monday said that the party will be a very strong and vibrant Opposition in Rajya Sabha and make the Centre accountable on all issues. The BJD for the first time since its formation in 1997 has no MPs in the Lok Sabha.

Presiding over BJD's parliamentary party meeting ahead of the Rajya Sabha session, Naveen asked his nine MPs in the Upper House to be the voice of 4.5 crore people of Odisha and be a very strong and vibrant Opposition. He asked them to raise all issues pertaining to the state's development and welfare of the people of Odisha. "Many just and rightful demands of Odisha have not been met. We must ensure that those demands are met in right earnest by the Centre," he said.

Senior Rajya Sabha member Sasmit Patra told mediapersons after the meeting that if necessary the BJD MPs will protest and even go to the well of the House in the interest of Odisha. "The BJD will make up for the lack of any member in the Lok Sabha by raising all issues vigorously in Rajya Sabha," he said.

It was decided that the BJD will raise the long-standing demand of special category state status for Odisha, which the party is fighting for the last several years. The state has been facing natural disasters and needs to be accorded special category status, Patra said and added that the BJP had also mentioned it in the party's 2014 election manifesto, but did not implement it.

Stating that there are several pending demands, he said the people of Odisha are deprived of their rightful share for using it in their development.

Govt schools told to be ready for rainy days

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH heavy rain expected over the next couple of weeks in different parts of the state, the government has ordered all its schools to ensure safety of students during water logging and damage to school buildings.

In a circular, Department of School Education and Literacy (DSEL) noted that dilapidated school buildings were likely to get damaged or even collapse during rain. For the safety of students, respective headmasters should make alternative arrangements.

The department has also sought from officials a list of buildings, rooms, toilets and compounds that need fixing for the ongoing rainy season. "Some areas might experience heavy rain and students might face difficulty due to water logging inside classrooms. In such cases, prompt action must be taken in cooperation with panchayat leaders, civic bodies or city council to clear the water," the circular read.

Headmasters and Block Education Officers (BEOs) have been directed to take precautionary measures to ensure that live power cables are not lying on the ground. "Small scale repairs can be done with the help of civic bodies at the earliest," the advisory suggested.

Schools should also cover open pits, wells or manholes and restrict students from going near them. "Holidays must be declared on extremely rainy days after obtaining prior permission. Lectures missed on such days must be completed in the following schedule," the Education Commissioner said.

TN assembly will pass resolution seeking nat'l caste census: Stalin

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

CHIEF Minister MK Stalin on Monday announced that a resolution would be passed in the current Assembly session urging the Union Government to conduct a nationwide caste census along with the decennial census (which is pending) expeditiously.

The CM said this when PMK floor leader GK Mani raised the issue of 10.5% reservation for the Vanniyar community. Pointing out that the caste census conducted by Bihar government was struck down by court, the CM said PMK, an ally of the ruling NDA at the centre, could make the BJP conduct nationwide caste census by exerting pressure on it. He also urged the PMK to support the state's resolution.

Law Minister S Regupathy and Transport Minister SS Sivasankar too responded to the PMK leader. When Mani sought more time to explain his case, Speaker Appavu said the CM and ministers had already given sufficient explanation and if Mani wanted to elaborate, he could do it when the demands for grants for the backward classes department are taken up for discussion. He pointed out that the subjects taken for discussion on Monday were school education, higher education, and the revenue department. After pleading for more time, Mani staged a walkout.

During the discussion, when Mani said the state government should conduct a caste census to ensure 10.5% reservation for Vanniyar community, Law Minister S Regupathy said since the 10.5% reservation was given in haste by the AIADMK regime without getting proper data on socio-economic, employment and educational status of the community, it was struck down by the Madras High Court and the Supreme Court.

REASONABLE TO EXPECT BETTER TURNOUT IN J&K ASSEMBLY POLLS

WITH the deadline for the J&K assembly elections imposed by the Supreme Court a little over three months away, the process of poll roll revision has just kicked off. This will be the first state election after the BJP lost its majority in the Lok Sabha, sliding to 240 seats from 303 in the 2019 general elections. The party continues to remain in power due to its pre-poll NDA tie-up, though without the afterglow of 2014 and 2019. J&K saw unprecedented voter enthusiasm in the recent general elections, the first after the Centre took away its special powers under Article 370 on August 5, 2019. At 58.58 percent, the polling percentage was the highest in 35 years. The absence of fear of the gun apparently contributed to the full expression of the people's will at the hustings. Violence resumed only around the time the verdict was out and the Pakistani leadership was greeting Narendra Modi for his third consecutive term as prime minister. Significantly, Pakistan lost sway in the Kashmir valley ever since the repression of former Prime Minister Imran Khan and his followers by their military establishment.

That Kashmiris decisively voted out the National Conference and PDP heavyweights Omar Abdullah and Mehbooba Mufti in Baramulla and Anantnag-Rajouri indicated their disenchantment with the leadership of the two prominent regional parties. But they gave the NC two seats elsewhere. Omar lost to a jailed independent, Engineer Rashid, by over two lakh votes; Mufti was trounced by over three lakh votes. The BJP picked up the other two seats. In all, the BJP did well only in one-third of 90 assembly segments in J&K in the Lok Sabha polls. Whether the delimitation exercise that raised the number of assembly seats from 83 to 90—47 in Kashmir and 43 in Jammu—would benefit the BJP remains to be seen.

The voter turnout could go up further in the assembly polls because local issues normally have more resonance in the mind space than national ones. Preparations for the elections can begin only after the annual 50-day Amarnath Yatra is wrapped up on August 19. That will give the poll panel about six weeks to hold the elections after redeploying the security forces. Whatever the outcome, the post-poll restoration of statehood for J&K is a given, but not Article 370 because of constitutional impediments.

KCR NEEDS TO KEEP CADRE MORALE HIGH

THE elections may be over, but politics in Telangana continues with the same momentum. The Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS) is facing a pincer attack from the ruling Congress and the BJP. Though it is the main opposition in the assembly, the BRS drew a blank in the Lok Sabha polls, even losing deposit in eight constituencies. In this backdrop, a number of its legislators are veering towards the Congress and the BJP to survive the next five years. It's an irony of fate that the BRS now finds itself in more or less the same position as the Congress did after the 2014 and 2019 elections in the state.

But the Congress, despite losing leaders, had the advantage of being an old institution engraved in the public psyche and had been the main opposition by default. The BRS, on the other hand, has been around for a little over two decades and has to contend with a resurgent BJP too. It may not be able to hold on to some legislators who are under the scanner of central agencies. A few state council members, too, are said to be headed the same way. If the Congress has its way, as its leaders openly claim, the BRS could lose 20 MLAs. In the Rajya Sabha, the party has already lost one of its five members to the Congress. With little representation in parliament and its numbers likely to come down in the state assembly and council, the BRS has only one option left—to be among the people and keep its cadre intact. It is easier said, as the saffron party, after doubling its state Lok Sabha count from four to eight, has set its sights on 88 seats in the next assembly. It is also looking at appointing a state chief who can wean away backward caste leaders and cadre from the BRS.

A parallel could be drawn between BRS chief K Chandrasekhar Rao and TDP supremo N Chandrababu Naidu. After 2019, Naidu was isolated on all sides. But he was able to bounce back by keeping the morale of his cadre high. Can KCR do a Naidu? For that, he needs to take up public causes and get rid of the tag of a family party. Otherwise, fighting a two-front war is not going to be easy.

QUICK TAKE

CLIMATE RESILIENCE & BANGLADESH

THE re-elected Bangaldeshi PM's visit to India to meet our re-elected PM is a good augury. Our second-highest tourist arrivals last year were from Bangladesh; five Indian states share a 4,096-km border with the neighbour. So the two PMs' talks on defence, logistics, water-sharing and trade are important on both sides. It is essential now to combine our efforts on climate resilience. The World Bank estimates cyclones cost Bangladesh about $1 billion annually; by 2050, a third of the country's agricultural GDP could be lost and 13 million people rendered internally displaced. This would cause enormous trouble in the region. The time to start acting is now.

Big powers have been meddling in West Asia for long. Now China has made huge investments there. Will it be able to extend its influence?

A NEW GREAT GAME IS AFOOT IN WEST ASIA

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)

Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps. Now Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

IN geopolitics, a Great Game is a reference to the build-up to a potential contest in a region where a clash of interests between two or more influential powers appears inevitable. The term was first used academically by Professor H W C Davis in 1926. It referred to the 19th-century Anglo-Russian rivalry in Central Asia. It was not just the confrontation but the strategy of establishing spheres of influence in the various sub-regions of Afghanistan and Central Asia by both Russia and Great Britain that subsequently became an established characteristic of the strategy of any Great Game.

West Asia is prone to and ideally suited to similar Great Game strategies. The US and Russia lobbied hard through the Cold War. The US invariably backed Israel, but maintained a cordial relationship with most of the energy-producing Arab nations. For the US, the stability of West Asia and keeping it conflict-free was a priority to ensure its own continuity of energy interests. The former Soviet Union mainly backed the militant Arab states of Egypt and Syria to remain embedded in its area of interest and prevent any strategic imbalance in favour of the US. Both the Soviet Union and the US were far from their home shores, but there was a clear differentiation in approach adopted by them. The US chose to establish military bases, particularly at maritime locations, and parked assets and troops at various facilities, thus also offering incidental security to some monarchies. Russia did not resort to this; although, for them, the stakes were very high to ensure that they had a foothold in warm waters outside the Black Sea.

SOURAV ROY

The Russians came back in 2015 to ensure their interests in Syria, particularly the military facilities, remained intact and were not overrun by the menace of the marauding Daesh, which was then threatening all of West Asia. An earlier contention of US interests in West Asia invariably revolved around hydrocarbons. As more shale gas reserves were discovered, the US appeared to have lost comparative strategic interest in the region in favour of the Indo-Pacific, which after 2015 became the attractive 'go-to' domain of worldwide strategic interests. Why did it come back with a bang as it did, especially in the times of Donald Trump?

The Trump administration wasn't wrong in its supposed assumption that West Asia would always remain the strategic centre of the world, despite many Shangri La dialogues. Take a look, how? A majority of trade routes intersect in the region; the Suez Canal remains a key asset of the region. Energy-wise, it still remains the central zone, providing energy to two of the world's very important manufacturing hubs Japan and China, besides to populous and fast-emerging India. Conflicts here always had a way of ensuring the rest of the world got involved with the spin-offs. For the better part of the last 75 years, the ideological drivers of conflict have all emanated from here. Political Islam was born here and its contribution to instability in crucial regions around the world is well recognised.

In recent times, the mass migration from conflict-ridden zones have mainly been from West Asia, bringing in their wake social turbulence in the stable societies of Europe. The one phenomenon that has yet to hit West Asia is the politics of overt nuclearisation; the covert part has been rife for some time. That is why the above board and also simmering conflicts have the potential to trigger events that could become uncontrollable and lead to much more. Iran's general proxy war strategy in multiple sub-regions, Syria's civil war, Saudi Arabia's war against the Houthis in Yemen and now the raging Israeli war against the Palestinians in Gaza, all bear the potential of going completely out of control and need the influence of the big powers to draw them back. That is why it's a surprise that the US, with all its interests intact in having a stable and not a turbulent West Asia, continues to soft-pedal the proposal for even a ceasefire in Gaza.

West Asia is not just the hunting ground for the US, although it has retained its interests here by parking sufficient troops and other military assets to enable it to move and build up to any other part of the world. China is now eyeing the area, as was evident from its much-touted brokerage of a peace deal between Saudi Arabia and Iran that incidentally is not spoken of much in current strategic circles.

What would the Chinese concept of its role in the West Asian Great Game possibly be? China is unlikely to park any military assets here. None of the nations of the regions would want alien troops on their soil at this juncture. US presence continues as it harks back to the Cold War, when the strategic environment was quite different. China will employ every means short of hard power to retain influence over its energy suppliers and maintain continuity there. It will refrain from ever getting involved in conflicts of any kind. The strategic security domain in which its active involvement may be virtually guaranteed is the maritime zone that influences the security of its energy sources. The beat, Djibouti to Gwadar and stepping north up to Chabahar, is where China has made investment. Clearly it is its area of focus, and it's here that it will remain sensitive to the point of responding if provoked. It clearly won't involve itself against Houthis and the likes in the Red Sea or elsewhere. China is known to have invested $273 billion in West Asia in the period 2005-22, and it will make all that count. What is suspect is China's ability to fully comprehend culture and civilisation, two areas that are so essential for empire and extension of influence.

The US and India have a swathe of mutual interests here; from the Western Quad US-UAE-India-Israel (U2I2) to the nascent India-Middle East-Europe Corridor (IMEC). As the US pushes for influence in the Indo Pacific and China pushes for the same in West Asia, the impact of their clash could well be felt most in the middle. No prizes for guessing where that could be.

DEBATING EMPATHY AT THE DINING TABLE

C P SURENDRAN

Poet, novelist, and screenplay writer. His latest novel is One Love and the Many Lives of Osip B

LAST fortnight was Eid. There was the usual trolling and the slaughterhouse visuals, the purpose of which was to show Islam in a bad light. Few pointed out that a majority of Indians eat non-vegetarian food. The argument for vegetarianism is neither religious nor political. It is about the fact that humans are in control of their diet; and, therefore, they are in a position to inflict less pain on other animals. I make this argument not as a complete convert, but as an aspirant.

Humans in various stages of standing upright have been around for 2.5 million years now. We had more massive jaws and a different digestive system then, and could eat raw meat. Hunting games involved teamwork, and we learned how to cooperate and invent weapons.

About a million-odd years ago, we could control fire and cooking was invented, resulting in softer food, which gradually altered the set of jaws and our digestive tracts. Nevertheless, we are essentially a carnivorous primate. So what's the argument for avoiding meat or at least minimising its consumption?

Utilitarian thinkers like Peter Singer would argue for vegetarianism based on the Benthamite principle. It defines good as that which produces the greatest amount of pleasure for the maximum number, and the minimum amount of pain for the least number.

Professor Singer includes animals like fish, chicken, pork and cow in those numbers. In Singer's scheme, humans are also animals, but ones with an evolved consciousness and, therefore, capable of more responsibility in their approach to pain and pleasure for all. Singer holds humans responsible for the well-being of all other animals.

The current Indian prime minister is vegetarian. The Hindutva politics he represents generally puts out the idea that they consider the cow a holy animal. Yet, depending on which survey you read, India is placed between the second and fifth position in the world as a beef producer and exporter.

In 'Untouchability, The Dead Cow, and The Brahmin', B R Ambedkar states: "That the Aryans of the Rig Veda did kill cows for purposes of food and ate beef is abundantly clear from the Rig Veda itself... The Rig Veda (X. 91.14) says that for Agni were sacrificed horses, bulls, oxen, barren cows and rams." Later in the essay, he writes: "Overridden by ritualism, there was hardly a day on which there was no cow sacrifice to which the Brahmin was not invited by some non-Brahmin. For the Brahmin every day was a beef-steak day."

But once the Vedic period got over and the Brahmins had to preserve their identity against the onslaught of new trends, beef eaters became untouchable. Abstinence from meat became a mark of distinction.

WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

> Philosopher Peter Singer would argue for vegetarianism by defining good as that which produces the greatest pleasure for the most, and the minimum amount of pain for the fewest. If care for all life is a standard of civilisation, we should consider killing fewer animals

As I said, I am not a diehard vegetarian, nor a Brahmin. But I am beginning to see the merit in a modest kind of vegetarianism, or Brahminism, if you will.

A cow is a large animal with a centrally developed nervous system. It experiences emotions like love, fear and physical sensations like pain. The animals are transported across long distances to slaughterhouses in awful conditions. Their slaughter itself is extremely painful.

One argument against eating beef is not the holiness of the animal and its association with some of the Hindu deities. It is that we are inflicting great pain on an animal for food when we have other, less bloody options. This applies to other animals we consume. Pork, lamb or chicken. Because of our discretion—we do not prefer dogs or cats—we may think we are more civilised. But this position is relative to the culture we live in.

Contrary to rumours, Indians can be a cruel people. In Andhra Pradesh, West Bengal, Kerala and Tamil Nadu, more than 97 percent of the population have no problems eating something non-vegetarian at every meal. Fish included. It has been scientifically proven that fish are capable of experiencing pain.

The question though is not the eating, but the killing. Do humans consider only their pain valid? Or are all animals in the food chain worthy of being protected from pain? This is a complicated question. Because if humans consider themselves exceptional, they have little obligation to the nature around them. Indeed, by the same argument of exceptionality, an American life could be seen as more valuable than a human life in India or Sudan.

Humans are contradictory creatures. Unlike other beings, we are capable of feeling pain in the abstract. Empathy. We see a movie and cry though the characters are not real. We help a dog in distress or haul a cow out of a swamp. Then we go home and eat whatever is at hand.

The evolutionary argument justifying this daily massacre is that though the human brain is only 2 percent of the body weight, it consumes 20 percent of the energy, and that animal proteins are a more efficient food source. But does this argument hold in the face of plant-based options? Or lab-generated meat?

The real argument in favour of vegetarianism is that it leads to a more tolerant world. If alleviation of pain and care for all animal life are the defining standards of civilisation, there are higher chances of a more equitable society and fewer wars. It looks to me that it is on the dining table that we continue to decide how to live or die.

Passing marks

Ref: Voice of people: BJP's coalition government (Jun 24). One wonders how a learned advocate can seem to be so blind. The BJP got less seats as compared to expectations. But the Congress just got passing marks. Instead of introspection, he is undermining public opinion.

ECI's reputation

An eminent lawyer and parliamentarian should not have maligned the central crime investigation agencies and the ECI as the cause of Modi's decline. Why has he ignored that the so-called 'honest' politicians sent behind bars did not get any respite even from the apex court despite lawyers like Singhvi and Sibal himself defending the accused?

New system

Thin ice

On the first day of parliament, PM Narendra Modi lambasted the opposition about the Emergency 50 years ago, as if there is no better topic for him to speak about. He seems to have forgotten that his government is on crutches today as the people have downed his party's strength to less than simple majority. Even the head of the BJP's ideological parent body RSS criticised him and his party indirectly about the way they functioned in the past.

Political backing

Scores of people lost their lives consuming illicit liquor in Kallakurichi in Tamil Nadu. It is reported that the hooch makers have strong political backing. If it is so, expecting stringent action against them is foolhardy. The solatium announced by the government should be recovered from the illegal businessmen behind this tragedy.

BJP chief writes to Kharge on Tamil Nadu hooch tragedy, questions Congress' 'stoic silence' on the tragedy

Nadda replaces Goyal as leader of Upper House

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

BJP chief JP Nadda, the new Union Health Minister, has yet another task assigned to him. The party has named him the Leader of the House in the Rajya Sabha, replacing party colleague Piyush Goyal who has been elected to the Lok Sabha.

Official sources said Nadda will be the leader of the House during the Rajya Sabha session that will start from June 27 as part of the first session of Parliament after the elections for the 18th Lok Sabha.

Nadda's term as the BJP chief is set to end this June-end.

In the NDA-3 government's Council of Ministers, there are 11 RS members besides Nadda.

Congress' Jairam Ramesh greeted Nadda upon his nomination as the House leader. In an X post, he said, "Greetings to JP Nadda ji on his being nominated as the Leader of the House in Rajya Sabha. As Venkaiah Naidu said if the leader of the House can accommodate, the Opposition can cooperate."

However, Nadda appeared disinterested. In a hard-hitting four-page letter to Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge, Nadda on Monday slammed the Congress for maintaining "stoic silence" on the deaths of 50 people in a hooch tragedy in the DMK-ruled Tamil Nadu. The DMK is an ally of the Congress in the INDIA bloc. The letter came amid a national outrage against irregularities in the NEET-UG exam results.

The BJP chief described the tragedy as a "man-made disaster" and attributed the high number of casualties to an alleged nexus between the ruling DMK-INDIA bloc and the liquor mafia. The tragedy took place in Karunapuram village, Kallakurichi, which is dominated by the Scheduled Caste population.

Nadda asked Kharge to exert pressure on the state government to order a CBI probe and demanded the removal of state Prohibition and Excise Minister S Muthusamy. In the letter, Nadda also called for enhancing the compensation for the victims' families.

Nadda also sought to highlight the contrast between Rahul Gandhi's advocacy for social justice and the party's perceived indifference to the plight of the SC/ST community in Tamil Nadu. He said Rahul and other Congress leaders should act decisively rather than keep "stoic selective silence".

Nadda also challenged the integrity of the INDIA bloc, alleging its partners' "propensity" towards involvement in illegal liquor activities. He called for purging such elements from the alliance, citing Mahatma Gandhi's staunch opposition to alcohol consumption.

"Kharge ji, certain issues require us to rise above party lines for the welfare and safety of the SC, ST community," he wrote, asking Kharge to walk the talk for bringing justice to the SC/ST communities.

"As you know, Karunapuram is largely populated by the Scheduled Castes, who face several challenges due to poverty and discrimination in Tamil Nadu," Nadda wrote.

'After polls, BJP's growth in TN will only be upwards'

YOU can't call him a greenhorn politician nor will he allow you to write off his party's setback in his state in the recently concluded Lok Sabha elections. He will turn around and ask you to do your math correctly. "While the BJP did not win a single seat in Tamil Nadu the NDA alliance garnered an 18.2% vote share and the BJP had an individual vote share of 11.2%. In 78 of the 234 assembly constituencies, the BJP has secured the second position, pushing AIADMK to number 3," cop-turned-firebrand politician and TN BJP chief K Annamalai told Bala Chauhan in an interview. Excerpts:

What went wrong for the BJP in Tamil Nadu despite the hectic campaigning by the PM and you?
The line of questioning only serves to highlight the inherent bias that many media outlets have towards the BJP's growth in TN. It's important to note that a national party without an alliance with the major Dravidian parties has secured a double-digit vote share after five decades in TN. Our Honourable Prime Minister, speaking from the Central Hall of Parliament in the NDA alliance partners meeting, not only commended the growth of BJP in TN but also emphasised that the growth from here will only be upwards, a clear testament to our achievements.

The NDA alliance garnered an 18.2% vote share in Tamil Nadu, and the BJP had an individual vote share of 11.2%. Of the 39 constituencies, the NDA alliance clinched the second position in 12 constituencies. In a significant 78 of the 234 assembly constituencies, the BJP has secured the second position, pushing AIADMK to number 3.

DMK's vote share dropped from 33.5% in 2019 to 26.93% in 2024. On the other hand, BJP's vote share increased from 3.3% in 2019 to 11.24% in 2024, and AIADMK's vote share almost remained constant.

As a momentous achievement, we have not only succeeded in elevating the party's vote share to double digits in this election but also in demonstrating our rising influence and popularity among the voters.

Our next goal is to send MPs from TN, and we are confident of achieving this in next election.

Though BJP has not won a single seat in TN, its vote share is higher than 10% of the Congress. What do you attribute this success to?
Our cadres have put their heart and soul into the development of our party across Tamil Nadu, a testament to our commitment to the state and its people. Their dedication, hard work, and perseverance are key factors in our growing influence in the state.

The Congress, on the other hand, is comfortable in an alliance with DMK. Beyond a few Lok Sabha seats, Congress in TN has a negligible presence. It is able to showcase this double-digit vote share only due to an alliance with DMK, VCK, and the minority parties. At least 38 of the 39 Congress candidates lost their deposit when they contested independently.

This stark contrast between our and Congress performance is a reflection of BJP's growing influence in TN. So, comparing Congress in TN to the BJP is not ideal.

Why, despite increased vote share the saffron party could not win a single seat?
If you have tracked this election well, you would have your answer to this question.

AIADMK contested 33 seats, an increase of 10 from the last elections, but could gain a vote share of just 0.8%. In the seats BJP was confident of winning, AIADMK either lost deposits or managed to secure deposits. This indicates that AIADMK focused on BJP instead of winning and voluntarily let their vote transfer to DMK.

For example, AIADMK contested independently in 2014 and won about 4.5 lakh votes in Coimbatore but could manage 2.3 lakh votes in 2024. Apart from Coimbatore, there were a few seats that we were confident of winning, but the performance of AIADMK reflected that they were in cahoots with DMK.

Oppn holds march to Parliament with 'save Constitution' slogan

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

THE first day of the 18th Lok Sabha saw a resurgent Opposition making an entry into the House, holding copies of the Constitution and raising slogans on saving democracy.

Ahead of the Lok Sabha session, several Opposition leaders, including Congress MPs Mallikarjun Kharge, Rahul Gandhi, Samajwadi Party's Akhilesh Yadav, and TMC's Sudip Bandyopadhyay held a march to Lok Sabha with the Constitution in hand. Earlier, the leaders gathered at the spot where the Gandhi statue once stood in Parliament complex.

Former Congress president Sonia Gandhi joined the MPs. The leaders raised slogans such as "Long live the Constitution", "We will save the Constitution" and "Save our Democracy".

The Gandhi statue, which was a popular protest site for MPs, was recently relocated, along with 14 other statues that dotted the complex, to a new spot named Prerna Sthal.

Trinamool Congress MP Kalyan Banerjee who joined the protest said, "We are protesting because the provisions of the Constitution have been violated by the Narendra Modi government. The way the pro-tem speaker has been appointed is a clear violation of the Constitutional provision and clear violation of the precedence."

The Opposition is up in arms against the government over appointment of Bhartruhari Mahtab, a seven-time MP, as the pro-tem Speaker, superseding K Suresh, a Dalit MP who has seen eight terms.

Congress MP Gaurav Gogoi said, "The ruling party hasn't forgotten their haughtiness. We can see that they are ignoring the key subjects of the country. The whole Dalit community in India could witness a historic action if Suresh were appointed as pro-tem Speaker. The BJP has not just neglected Congress, INDIA alliance and K Suresh but the Dalit community..."

While Rahul Gandhi and other Opposition MPs waved the Constitution when Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah were taking oath, Gandhi later said they would not allow the Constitution to be "attacked" by the BJP leaders. "This attack is not acceptable to us and that is why we held the Constitution and took oath," he said.

"Our message is reaching the public and no power can touch the Constitution. We will protect it," Gandhi added.

Congress leader KC Venugopal said the INDIA bloc leaders entered the 18th Lok Sabha with Mahatma Gandhi's blessings. "The INDIA alliance enters the Lok Sabha with a fresh resolve to give voice to people's issues," he said.

Setback to Kejriwal as SC refuses to give relief, HC order on bail plea today

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @New Delhi

THERE was no immediate relief for Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal as the Supreme Court's vacation bench on Monday adjourned to June 26 his plea challenging the Delhi High Court's stay order on his bail in the Delhi liquor policy scam case.

A two-judge vacation bench of the top court, led by Justice Manoj Misra and Justice SVN Bhatti, while refusing to pass any immediate order on Kejriwal's plea, said, "What we propose to do is let the Delhi HC order come on record and we can keep the case next week. Without the order, how do we proceed?" The bench adjourned Kejriwal's petition for a hearing on June 26, Wednesday.

The Delhi HC had reserved the order on the ED's appeal challenging the bail granted to Kejriwal by a trial court and is expected to pronounce it by 2 pm on Tuesday.

During the course of the hearing, Abhishek Manu Singhvi, senior lawyer for Kejriwal, questioned the Delhi High Court order granting stay on bail on the first day of hearing.

HC order on Tuesday

The Delhi High Court will pronounce on Tuesday its verdict on a plea by the Enforcement Directorate seeking a stay on the trial court order granting bail to Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal at 2.30 pm on Tuesday.

"Why can't the CM be free till the High Court gives its order? Counsel says CM has a bail order in his favor and he is not a flight risk," he said.

Singhvi, seeking immediate reversal of the HC order, said that if the HC can pass an order at 10.30 am without seeing the (trial court) order, then why can't the SC also stay the HC order without the judgment?

To this, the apex court told him, "If the HC made a mistake, why should we repeat it?"

India, Bangla defence staff colleges tie up on strategic & operational studies

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

TAKING a significant step towards India and Bangladesh academic jointness encompassing the strategic and operational matter, a Memorandum of Understanding was signed between the two countries.

"Defence Services Staff College (DSSC), Wellington and Defence Services Command and Staff College (DSCSC), Mirpur, Dhaka have inked a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) for cooperation concerning Military Education in the field of Strategic and Operational Studies," the Defence Ministry said on Monday.

This MoU, added MoD, will assist in enhancing professional acumen, provide deep insight into strategic affairs, assist in sharing best practices and expertise as well as augment the academic capabilities of student officers and faculty members. It will facilitate conduct of training packages, Joint Seminars, faculty exchanges, reciprocal instructor visits to name a few.

Both the colleges impart training to officers of tri-services, preparing them for higher staff and command responsibilities. They share common ethos, training curriculum and methodology and face similar challenges. Accordingly, they have decided to sign a MoU, for further enhancing bilateral engagements.

The significant MoU was signed during the official state visit of Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina to India on June 22. The visit was at the invitation of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

This was the first incoming bilateral state visit after the formation of the government in India following the 18th Lok Sabha elections.

Prime Minister Hasina was among the international leaders who attended the swearing-in ceremony of the Prime Minister and the Union Council of Ministers on June 9.

In his statement issued during the visit, PM Modi had said Bangladesh is situated at the convergence of our 'Neighbourhood First' Policy, Act East Policy, Vision SAGAR and Indo-Pacific Vision.

Established in 1905, the DSSC conducts tri-services courses and prepares the officers to be eligible for critical staff appointments into the higher formations of the Army and also for foreign postings.

Dhaka-based Defence Services Command and Staff College is a prime military centre of excellence.

State of affairs: 'Only 3 of every 5 girls make it to higher secondary schools'

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

ONLY three out of every five girls in India make it to higher secondary school, with reasons ranging from gender discrimination and early marriages to inadequate school facilities.

Concerned about girls leaving school prematurely, Child Rights and You (CRY), a prominent child rights organisation operating across 20 states, launched a seven-week national campaign on Monday.

The pan-India awareness campaign, 'Poori Padhai Desh Ki Bhalai,' aims to raise public awareness, shift societal attitudes towards girls' education, and boost their enrollment across all educational levels — primary, upper-primary, secondary and higher secondary.

Girls face various obstacles in completing their education, including socio-economic challenges, cultural norms, long travel distances and safety concerns on their way to school. These factors contribute to increased dropout rates, leaving them vulnerable to child labor, underage marriage, teenage pregnancy, abuse, exploitation, and even trafficking.

Puja Marwaha, CEO of CRY, said, "Ensuring higher secondary education for girls is non-negotiable for their empowerment. To support girls beyond elementary education, targeted interventions with clear goals and actions are essential. This includes adequate public funding, financial incentives, improved infrastructure, community engagement, and rigorous enforcement of laws against child marriage.

However, none of this is achievable without creating widespread awareness and social resonance around girls' education."

The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (RTE) Act of 2009 aimed to provide universal education for Indian children up to the age of 14. Despite this milestone, many girls still lack access to secondary and higher secondary education.

The National Education Policy 2020 aims to extend universal, free and quality education up to the age of 18, aligning with the Sustainable Development Goals for equitable education by 2030.

NEET FIASCO: With CBI formally taking charge of probe, face-off between NDA and INDIA escalates and RJD points fingers at Bihar CM

Bihar cops say case almost solved

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

THE CBI on Monday formally took over the investigation into the NEET-UG 2024 question paper leak case even as the Bihar police Economic Offences Unit (EOU) claimed that it has "almost solved the case having collected clinching evidence" against the accused.

A two-member CBI team visited the EOU office and collected a copy of the FIR and the case diary. They also received the status report on the probe conducted by the state investigating agency. The copy of the FIR registered by the Patna police at its Shashtrinagar police station was also handed over to the CBI team.

The Central agency is contemplating quizzing the six suspects arrested from Jharkhand's Deoghar district by the EOU team on Friday night. The accused, including Baldev Kumar alias Chintu, a close associate of the alleged kingpin of the 'solver gang' Sanjeev Mukhiya, are likely to be taken on remand for interrogation.

Sources said Mukhiya, a resident of Nagarnausa village in Nalanda district, has sneaked into Nepal. "Mukhiya's arrest will open the Pandora's Box in the case," said a senior EOU official.

He said the EOU has almost cracked the case and collected clinching evidence to get the accused 'punished' in the court of law. The sequence of the paper leak has been corroborated during the interrogation of the accused, he added.

During interrogation, an accused admitted to having received a leaked question paper. The EOU suspected that the question paper leaked from one of the five Hazaribagh (Jharkhand) schools where the NEET-UG exam was held.

The EOU claims to have found significant lapses on the part of the National Testing Agency (NTA), responsible for conducting such exams. The investigating agency found that the questions from the burnt booklet recovered during the raid in Patna matched entirely with those in the original booklet.

"We found the details of the questions set and traced the candidate who got the T3 set of question papers. We also managed to trace the box and envelope in which the T3 set was dispatched for the exam and it was torn on the rear side and sealed to resemble an original sheet," the EOU official claimed.

On the political front, the face-off between the NDA and the 'INDIA' bloc escalated on the paper leak scandal. The RJD released photos of Bihar CM Nitish Kumar and other JD (U) leaders with the main accused of the case Sanjeev Mukhiya's wife on social media.

The RJD uploaded on its official X handle photographs of Mukhiya's wife Mamata Devi with CM Nitish Kumar, minister Shravan Kumar, JD (U) MLC Neeraj Kumar and others.

"Who is protecting Sanjeev Mukhiya? Is it not a fact that Mukhiya's wife Mamata Devi contested the election under the NDA and is a leader of the JD (U)?" RJD spokesperson and MP Manoj Jha asked.

Responding to the charge, state JD (U) chief Umesh Kushwaha said that many people met the CM and that there was no meaning in any such photos. "The investigation is underway and those found guilty in the case would not be spared," he said.

A few days ago, The RJD also shared a photo of an accused Amit Anand with deputy CM and BJP state president Samrat Choudhary.

Rules under anti-paper leak law notified

The Centre on Monday made public the rules under the recently notified anti-paper leak law — The Public Examinations (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act, 2024 — mandating the National Recruitment Agency (NRA) to prepare norms, standards and guidelines for the computer-based tests, among others. The law, which aims to prevent unfair means in public examinations, has provisions for a minimum of 3-5 years of jail for cheating. Those involved in organised crimes of cheating will face 5-10 years of jail and minimum `1 crore fine

3 teachers among 4 from Latur booked amid Maha probe

NEET paper leak scam has now revealed the Maharashtra connection. Two teachers from Latur (NEET coaching hub) and Solapur districts have been arrested

The examination was held on May 5 across 4,750 centres in which around 24 lakh candidates appeared. The results were expected on June 14 but were declared early on June 4, apparently because the evaluation of the answer sheets got completed earlier. There have been allegations of question paper leaks in states like Bihar and the other irregularities in the prestigious exam.

AS the investigation into the NEET-UG paper leak led to Maharashtra, the Anti-Terrorist Squad (ATS) registered an FIR against four people, including three teachers from the district and one from outside the state. The FIR has been registered under sections 420 and 120b of the IPC and the relevant sections of the Public Examinations (Prevention of Unfair Means) Act.

Jalil Pathan, Sanjay Jadhav, Kongalwar, and a fourth person from Delhi, known by the pseudonym Gangadhar have been identified as the accused. The development was confirmed by Latur SP Somay Munde.

According to Maharashtra's ATS, the two suspect teachers, who were questioned on Saturday night, have also been named as accused. The ATS detained two teachers who run a private coaching centre in the district in connection with the alleged irregularities in the conduct of the entrance exam.

The agency's action came shortly after the Centre announced that the probe into the alleged irregularities would be handed over to the CBI, giving into the demands of students protesting across the country.

Dhananjay Shinde, vice president of AAP, Maharashtra unit tagging Maharashtra deputy CM Devendra Fadnavis posted that, "NEET paper leak scam has now revealed the Maharashtra connection. Two teachers from Latur (NEET coaching hub) and Solapur districts have been arrested. In Talathi recruitment, papers were leaked from the exam center at Latur. Appointments of Talathi are being given without full inquiry in recruitment scam. You have failed as Home Minister of Maharashtra in investigation of almost all online exams recruitment scams!".

Sharad Pawar-led NCP (SP) social media handle posted that the BJP is trying to cover up the NEET exam scam. "BJP has spoiled the several thousand students' dream to become doctors. The BJP promised good days, but days for the students and people of the country," it stated.

On May 5, nearly 24 lakh students appeared for the undergraduate medical courses exams. The results, which were declared at least 10 days ahead of the schedule, were marred with question paper leak allegations.

Whisper of IAS reshuffle gains currency in Jaipur

The corridors of power in Rajasthan are abuzz with whispers of an imminent bureaucratic shake-up. Sources revealed that ten top IAS officers, currently holding key positions appointed during the Ashok Gehlot government, might soon find themselves packing their bags. Insiders suggest that the transfer list was all set to drop right after the LS election results on June 4. However, it has hit a snag on the desks of none other than the CM and the Chief Secretary. This is reportedly a first in Rajasthan's bureaucratic history – a change of government, and yet, six months later, the same officers appointed by the previous regime are still in control.

Even goats are getting fancy health cards

In a unique initiative, goats in Banswara are set to receive their very own health cards for all their medical needs. These cards will contain details such as vaccination records, seasonal diet plans, food quantities, and complete care routines. Farmers will know exactly what their goats need and when. Additionally, veterinary doctors can easily access the goats' medical histories. This innovative project is starting with 20 to 30 goat-rearing farmers, spearheaded by Banswara District Collector, Dr. Indrajit Singh Yadav, who has tasked 'Rajivika' with its implementation.

Rumours on power centres in state BJP

Rumors are swirling that the BJP is in a tizzy over the Deputy CM's post. The buzz is that a complaint has reached the party leadership about too many power centres causing chaos and confusion in the system and among workers. Rajasthan currently has three power centres thanks to Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma and his two Deputy CMs—Diya Kumari and Premchand Bairwa. The BJP's move to placate the Brahmin, Rajput, and Dalit communities with these posts is backfiring, with workers unsure which leader to follow. Meanwhile, in Congress, state president Govind Singh Dotasara is stealing the spotlight with his unique style.

Raje's 'teach lesson' remarks bring out Raj BJP internal rift

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

AFTER the Lok Sabha elections, internal discord within the BJP in Rajasthan has surfaced. The most recent example involves a statement by former chief minister Vasundhara Raje Scindia.

On Sunday, Raje made a notable remark, saying, "The era of loyalty was different when the person who took you forward in politics was respected and always supported. But this does not happen in the present time. Today, people try to cut off the finger of the one by holding whom they learn to walk." Her comments attracted significant media attention and analysis.

The era of loyalty was different when the person who took you forward in politics was respected and always supported. But this does not happen in the present time

Vasundhara Raje Scindia, former CM

Political analysts interpret Raje's statement as a veiled criticism of the BJP high command and the state party leaders. Despite her two terms as CM, she was neither projected as the party's face in the recent assembly elections nor reappointed as CM.

This has led to speculation that her remarks were directed at the party's leadership, especially considering her mother, Vijaya Raje Scindia, played a crucial role in the establishment of both the Jan Sangh and the BJP. Others suggest that Raje's criticism was aimed at figures within the state govt, including DCM Diya Kumari and Minister Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore. Notably, Diya Kumari, who belongs to the former royal family of Jaipur, was once considered close to Raje. However, a rift between them surfaced during Raje's last tenure, when properties of the royal family were bulldozed.

Sources indicate that speculation arose that the BJP high command was grooming Diya Kumari as an alternative to Vasundhara Raje, which Raje became aware of.

Kumari's position as DCM has reinforced the speculations. Some even suggest that had ex-CM Bhairon Singh Shekhawat's political heir and senior BJP leader Narpat Singh Rajvi not made controversial remarks about the Jaipur royal family before the assembly elections, Diya Kumari might have been appointed CM. Similar rumors circulate about Sports Minister Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore. Although Raje maintained a low profile following the elections, the BJP's poor performance in the LS elections emboldened her faction.

MahaYuti, MVA vie to clinch Maha deal

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi partners have decided to contest an equal number of seats in the Maharashtra Assembly polls due later this year. On the other hand, the BJP-led ruling Mahayuti is yet to firm up a seat distribution formula.

MVA sources said the allies — Congress, NCP (SP) and Shiv Sena (UBT) — will work on a 96:96:96 seat allocation for the 288-member assembly. Sources said the equal share of seats reflected the allies' spirit of unity in which "there is no big or small brother in the alliance."

"In the given seats, the parties have to accommodate small allies such as Samajwadi Party, Peasant and Workers Party and the Swabhimani Shetkari Sangathan and Left parties," said a senior MVA leader.

Maharashtra Congress chief Nana Patole said that in the Lok Sabha elections, the Congress emerged as a single largest party with 13 Lok Sabha MPs plus one independent. Therefore, the party has the right to contest more seats in the assembly polls. "Adjustments can be made for the larger interest of the alliance," he said.

Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Sanjay Raut said the Congress and Sharad Pawar-led NCP (SP) strike rate is more than the Shiv Sena (UBT) in the Lok Sabha elections. "But no one can deny that Uddhav Thackeray was the face and the star campaigner for MVA in Lok Sabha elections," said Patole.

He said the MVA together won 30 seats while the BJP-led Mahayuti got only 17 seats.

On the other hand, in Mahayuti, like Lok Sabha, BJP has decided to contest more seats than its alliance partners as they are the main national party and the highest 105 MLAs in the current state assembly. "The BJP wants to contest 150 seats while 138 seats will be shared by CM Ekanth Shinde-led Shiv Sena and deputy chief minister Ajit Pawar-led NCP in the assembly elections," said a Sena source.

Very heavy rain likely in Gujarat until June 28 as IMD issues alert

A flooded street following heavy rains in recent days in Junagarh | PTI

THE India Meteorological Department (IMD) has issued a red alert for several coastal districts in Gujarat, forecasting heavy to very heavy rains on Monday. The bulletin predicts intense rainfall across various districts from June 24 to June 28, with the rest of the state expected to receive light to moderate rain. In Jamnagar, a school bus became stranded after a bridge was washed away due to heavy rains, but there were no casualties.

The red alert covers Valsad, Jamnagar, Dwarka, as well as Daman and Dadra Nagar Haveli. An orange alert has been issued for Junagadh, Amreli, Bhavnagar, Gir Somnath, Diu, Surat, Tapi, Navsari, and Dang. Aravalli, Mahisagar, Chhota Udepur, Bharuch, Narmada, Rajkot, Porbandar, and Botad are under a yellow warning for heavy rain until the morning of June 25th.

On Monday, heavy rains inundated Jamnagar district, causing significant disruption. In Mulia village of Kalavad taluka, a school bus became stranded when a local bridge was washed away. Due to the quick actions of the villagers, the school children and bus occupants were safely transported across the bridge, as the water flow was not dangerously high. This was the second consecutive day of flooding in the rural areas of Kalavad.

On Sunday, in South Gujarat's Jhagadia taluka, one person lost his life after being struck by a falling tree. In a separate incident, another tree collapsed, seriously injuring two men. The injured, Deepak Revadas Vasava and Ramesh Ishwar Vasava, were transported to the hospital via the 108 ambulance service. Sadly, Ramesh Vasava, 50, succumbed to his injuries during treatment, while Deepak Vasava remains under medical care.

According to unofficial data, 130 talukas in Gujarat received rainfall over the past 24 hours.

Kuki-Zo writes to Shah to renew UT demand

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

WITH the situation in ethnic violence-hit Manipur not showing any signs of improvement, the Indigenous Tribal Leaders' Forum wrote to home minister Amit Shah on Monday urging him to expedite the political solution – a Union Territory with a legislature under Article 239(A) of the Constitution for the Kuki-Zo tribals.

The ITLF took out a massive rally in Churachandpur and submitted a memorandum to Shah through the district magistrate, citing eight reasons why the tribals needed a political solution vis-à-vis Union Territory.

It said that even after more than a year of killings and displacements, there was no improvement in the security situation. "Almost 200 tribals have been killed and more than 7,000 homes destroyed. In the recent flare-up of violence in Jiribam, around 50 homes and shops belonging to tribals were burned down," memorandum read.

The ITLF alleged that supplies of all goods, including essential items, have been blocked from entering tribal areas. It added that while all development activities had come to a grinding halt, the Meitei-majority valley areas kept enjoying state patronage.

It added that as the tribals were unable to travel to Imphal, the government was using this opportunity to conduct mass job recruitment, knowing that tribals would not be able to avail themselves of the opportunity.

"Many job opportunities have already been lost for tribal youths, showing that the state government is openly partisan," it added.

The ITLF said the Kuki-Zo tribals were under constant threat of being attacked by armed elements. "They have openly stated that their aim is to either kill us or drive us out of our lands," it said.

Israel winding down Gaza ops, Lebanon could be next

Hezbollah says it has new weapons to target deeper into Israel

JERUSALEM

ISRAELI Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said on Sunday that the current phase of fighting against Hamas in Gaza is winding down, setting the stage for Israel to send more troops to its northern border to confront the Lebanese militant group Hezbollah.

The comments threatened to further heighten the tensions between Israel and Hezbollah at a time when they appear to be moving closer to war. Netanyahu also signaled that there is no end in sight for the grinding war in Gaza.

The Israeli leader said in a lengthy TV interview that while the army is close to completing its current ground offensive in the southern Gaza city of Rafah, that would not mean the war against Hamas is over. But he said fewer troops would be needed in Gaza, freeing up forces to battle Hezbollah. "We will have the possibility of transferring some of our forces north, and we will do that," he told Israel's Channel 14, a pro-Netanyahu TV channel, in an interview that was frequently interrupted by applause from the studio audience. "First and foremost, for defence," he added, but also to allow tens of thousands of displaced Israelis to return home.

The Iranian-backed Hezbollah began striking Israel almost immediately after Hamas' Oct. 7 cross-border attack that triggered the Gaza war. Israel and Hezbollah have been exchanging fire nearly every day since then, but the fighting has escalated in recent weeks, raising fears of a full-blown war.

Hezbollah is much stronger than Hamas, and opening a new front would raise the risk of a larger, region-wide war involving other Iranian proxies and perhaps Iran itself that could cause heavy damage and mass casualties on both sides of the border.

Netanyahu said he hoped a diplomatic solution to the crisis could be found but vowed to solve the problem "in a different way" if needed. We can fight on several fronts and we are prepared to do that," he said. He said any deal would not just be "an agreement on paper." He said it would require Hezbollah to be far from the border, an enforcement mechanism and the return of Israelis back to their homes.

Tens of thousands of people were evacuated shortly after the fighting erupted and have not been able to go home.

Hezbollah's leader Hassan Nasrallah warned Israel last week against launching a war, saying it has new weapons and intelligence capabilities that to target deeper inside Israel. AP

Carmakers offer discount to boost demand

Passenger vehicle sales in May fell to 3,03,358 units, down 0.96% over last year and down 9.48% against April 2024

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

WHEN one Sunil Kapoor had approached a car dealer last year for a hatchback, he received a quote of ₹7 lakh, which exceeded his budget by about ₹50,000. Fast forward to last week, he received quote for the same car but with a steep discount of ₹60,000. Facing a slowdown in fresh demand after two years of blockbuster sales, carmakers have taken the route of massive discounts and attractive offers to lure buyers.

Passenger vehicles sales meanwhile slumped to 3,03,358 units – down 0.96% over last year (3,06,305 units) and down 9.48% compared to April 2024 (3,35,123 units).

Excepts of a few SUVs which continue to command a waiting period, every product including some best selling models, available in the market carries some form of reward. Add to it, many carmakers have either gone for steep price cut or launched new variants to attract buyers interest.

For example, Tata Motors last week said it is giving benefits up to ₹1 lakh (depending on model and variant) for customers who have booked and await delivery of Nexon SUV. Nexon comes at a starting price of ₹7.99 lakh and goes up to ₹15.5 lakh for top variant. Mahindra & Mahindra launched new AX5 select variant of XUV 700 model. The variant is up to ₹1.4 lakh more affordable than the corresponding AX5 variants and comes with top-end specs like dual 10.25-inch screens, a panoramic sunroof, and dual front airbags.

Maruti Suzuki is offering attracting cash discounts on most hatchbacks and few SUVs, maximum of which can be availed on low-selling Jimny. To revive the hatchback segment, MSIL had launched the new Dream limited editions of its three most affordable cars, Alto K10, S-Presso and Celerio. All three will be similarly priced at ₹4.99 lakh (ex-showroom).

"The pre-monsoon period of May, June, and July traditionally sees a dip in automobile sales. In response to this seasonal trend, OEMs and dealers introduce various promotional programs, including discounts, offers, exchange offers, money-back schemes, and vouchers. These initiatives play a crucial role in stimulating market demand during these months. The collective efforts of OEMs and dealers in rolling out these promotions are appreciated, as they contribute significantly to sustaining sales momentum during an otherwise low period," said Manish Raj Singhania - President FADA.

He added, "As per recent reports, we are anticipating the revival of the monsoon and expect automobile sales to rebound strongly, marking a significant contribution to sustained sales momentum. The last two years have witnessed a good sales momentum for the Automobile industry and on a high base, we expect the growth to be in single digit."

Current account swings to $5.7 bn surplus in Q4FY24

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DRIVEN by a sharper fall in imports and a marginal fall in exports helped the economy narrow trade deficit, which along with robust services exports helped it report a current account surplus of $5.7 billion or 0.6% of GDP in the fourth quarter of the fiscal 2024 – frist time in 10 quarters, compared to a deficit of $1.3 billion or 0.2% in the year-ago quarter, according to the latest RBI data.

In the December 2023 quarter, the current account deficit stood at $8.7 billion or 1% of GDP, show the latest data.

The current account logged a surplus in the March quarter largely due to higher services, the Reserve Bank said on Monday. The current account surplus stood at $5.7 billion in the fourth reporting quarter as against a deficit of $8.7 billion or 1 percent of GDP in the preceding quarter.

For the full year m, the deficit narrowed sharply to $23.2 billion, or 0.7% of GDP, this is lowest in seven years, as against $67 billion or 2% of GDP in FY23, the central bank said.

The 0.6% surplus in the March quarter marks a significant improvement from the year-ago period, where the country had a current account deficit of $1.3 billion or 0.2% of GDP.

During the March quarter, net outgo on the primary income account, primarily reflecting payments of investment income, increased to $ 14.8 billion from $ 12.6 billion a year ago, the RBI said. Private transfer receipts, mainly representing remittances, amounted to $32 billion, an increase of 11.9% on-year, it added. In the financial account, net foreign direct investment flows were $2 billion compared to $6.4 billion a year ago, said the central bank.

Foreign portfolio investment saw a net inflow of $11.4 billion as against a net outflow of $1.7 billion on-year. Net inflows under external commercial borrowings to amounted to $2.6 billion in Q4 of 2023-24 as compared with $1.7 billion a year ago, the RBI said.

Non-resident deposits saw a higher net inflow of $5.4 billion, which was only $3.6 billion a year ago.

Commenting on the numbers, Aditi Nayar, chief economist at Icra Ratings, told TNIE that the current account turned in a welcome surplus after a gap of 10 quarters, with the same size of $5.7 billion.

STRATEGIC AREAS

Wipro identifies five areas for revitalising co

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INFORMATION technology firm Wipro has identified five strategic areas to 'revitalise the company, the newly appointed CEO and MD Srinivas Pallia said in his letter to stakeholders in the annual report of the company.

These areas include accelerating large deal momentum by working closely with clients and partners, focusing on AI-powered industry specific offerings and consultation-led business solutions as well as building talent at scale around industry solutions with an AI-first approach.

The MD and CEO also said the company will also be strengthening relationships with large clients and partners, and invest early on the next set of accounts that have the potential to grow into large accounts. The last focus area for the company would be to drive client centricity and delivery excellence with execution rigor and speed.

The IT giant Wipro has been going through a rough patch with its net profit continuously falling since FY22. The company posted ₹11,135.40 crore in FY24 compared to ₹11,372 crore in the previous year.

Prosus marks $493 mn loss in Byju's; writes off stake

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

INVESTMENT firm Prosus on Monday said it has written off its 9.6% stake in Byju's. In its FY24 annual report, the Naspers-owned firm said a fair value loss of $493 million was recognised in other comprehensive income in the current year.

In a statement, Prosus said, "We impaired Byju's mark down to zero at the end of FY24. The fair value written down was $493 mn for FY24. We have written down Byju's because we have inadequate information on Byju's financial health, liabilities, and future outlook."

The investment firm has invested over $500 million in the edtech firm, and this write off comes at a time when the edtech firm has been struggling with various challenges including the ongoing legal troubles.

Recently, in a note financial firm HSBC assigned zero value to Prosus' 9.6% stake in Byju's. It said, "We assign zero value to Byju's stake amid multiple legal cases and funding crunch." It added in the note, "Previously, we valued around 10% stake in Byju's by applying an 80% discount to the latest publicly disclosed valuation."

The edtech firm was once valued at $22 billion, and in November last year, Prosus had marked down the firm's valuation to less than $3 billion. In January this year, US-based asset manager BlackRock slashed Byju's valuation to $1 billion as of October 2023.

Investors including Prosus and General Atlantic, holders of over 60% of the cap table, recently voted in favour of change in leadership of the company and they filed an oppression and mismanagement suit against Byju Raveendran and management in the NCLT Bengaluru branch.

Last week, Byju's filed a petition with the Karnataka HC challenging the NCLT order as it prohibits the firm from proceeding with its second rights issue. On June 12, the NCLT had directed Byju's to maintain status quo in its shareholding.

Earlier this month, the ad hoc group of term loan lenders of Byju's Alpha Inc. said certain holders of the term loans and GLAS Trust Company LLC (as administrative agent and collateral agent of the term loans) had filed plea pursuant to Chapter 11 of the US Bankruptcy Code to initiate involuntary Chapter 11 proceedings against Epic!, Neuron Fuel (DBA Tynker), and Tangible Play (DBA Osmo), the three US-based guarantors of the term loans in the US Bankruptcy Court.

Sellers on Flipkart, MakeMyTrip, Amazon to benefit from lower TCS

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

SUPPLIERS, who sell their goods and services through platforms like Amazon, Flipkart, MakeMy Trip and Yatra, will benefit from the cut in TCS (tax collected at source) rate from 1% to 0.5% in terms of having more working capital to operate their businesses. However, only those businesses which are not very profitable or are in their initial phase will get the advantage, say experts.

The announcement to cut TCS was made in the 53rd GST Council meeting last Saturday.

"Purpose behind levying TCS is to track flow of money to raise tax base. This is levied at early-stage transaction on sale of goods, services, or certain high-value transactions and can be claimed as a credit by taxpayers. Loss-making businesses and start-ups will get relief of having more cash in hand," said Asish Philip, Partner at Lakshmikumaran & Sridharan.

Philip advocated for more cut in TCS to achieve objective of helping working capital challenges. He said it could be reduced to 0.1% or two tier approach will help in ease of doing business. Experts say notified services provided by restaurants, app-based cab platforms like Ola and Uber, exempt from TCS, won't be impacted.

"Multiple items of mass consumption are chargeable to 5% GST like packaged tea and coffee (non-instant), edible oils (vegetable, mustard), packaged and branded rice/wheat flour/ other cereals, sugar and jaggery, milk, cream, yoghurt, packed paneer, sanitary napkins, handloom products like sarees, bedsheets, other textile, and printed books/children's colouring books will feel respite," said Rajat Mohan, executive director-GST, MOORE Singhi.

He said implementation of the proposal doesn't introduce new complexities in reporting and compliance for e-commerce operators and suppliers. As per Smita Singh, Partner, S&A Law Offices, this is a rate cut, so compliance is not going to change much. Karthik Mani, Partner, Indirect Tax, BDO India, said, "Suppliers should ensure they maintain record of sales and returns effected via each platform and perform monthly reconciliation with the amount received as credit in ECL balance to avoid discrepancies in records kept by supplier and sales reported by them in GSTN portal."

Mahesh Jaising, Partner, Deloitte India, expects increased onboarding of sellers by the ecommerce platforms due to this development. "Lower TCS rates will provide suppliers with a cost-effective channel to reach a broader market," he said. Ashok Kumar Batra, Chair, Indirect Tax Committee, at PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said this decision would support digital economy and enhance ease of doing business.

Noida Airport launch delayed to April 2025 as against 2024-end deadline

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE launch of Noida International Airport (NIA), originally slated to be operational by the end of this year, has been extended due to a delay in construction activity. The greenfield airport is now expected to commence commercial operations by the end of April 2025.

NIA in a statement said that construction and development work at the airport is at an advanced stage and they continue to pass important milestones on the road to operational readiness.

"This is a large and complex project, and the next few weeks of construction activities are crucial. Work on the runway, the passenger terminal and the control tower, is well advanced. Recently, the concessions for ground handling, the operation of commercial areas and important maintenance contracts were awarded," it added.

While NIA did not specify reasons for the delay in inauguration, sources aware of the development stated that the primary reason could be difficulty in procuring some raw materials whose supply has taken a hit in the global market.

The airport, located in the Jewar area of Gautam Buddh Nagar district, is one of the most ambitious projects for the Uttar Pradesh government. It is being developed by Yamuna International Airport Pvt Ltd (YIAPL), a 100% subsidiary of Zurich Airport International AG.

In the first phase, the Delhi National Capital Region's second airport will have a single runway and would have the capacity to handle 12 million passengers annually.

By the end of phase 4, it is expected to have an annual capacity of 70 million passengers, two passenger terminals and two runways.

ZEE CEO Punit Goenka acquires majority stake in Maverick Media

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MD and CEO of ZEE Entertainment Enterprises Ltd (ZEE) Punit Goenka has acquired a majority stake in Maverick Media in personal capacity.

Maverick Media is promoted by Vistaar Entertainment, an entertainment company with significant presence across cinema exhibition, film, television, and other key entertainment content segments. Maverick Media is focused on building and enhancing the large screen cinema viewing experience across the country.

The details of the deal – quantum of stake, and cost of acquisition, etc – have not yet been made public. In a press note issued on Monday, the office of Punit Goenka said the latter has made the investment in his personal capacity, to revive and enrich the single-screen experience for cinema viewers and fans across the country.

"The investment will enable Maverick Media to unlock potential of under-screened markets, by building single-screen theatres in tier II and tier III cities," says the press note.

Commenting on his decision, Punit Goenka said, "While my professional commitments continue to remain a priority, I believe that as key members of the fraternity, it is our collective responsibility to enhance the growth opportunities for all segments in the media value chain, and hence I have taken this decision in my personal capacity. The potential of single screen cinemas across several tier II & III cities is immense, and it is imperative to revive this infrastructure, keeping its fabric and cultural essence intact."

Rohit slams 92 off 41 as India beat Australia to enter semis, set up repeat of 2022 vs England

GOMESH S @ Chennai

India skipper Rohit Sharma slammed his second fifty of the 2024 T20 WC during the Super 8s match against Australia | AFP

ICC MEN'S T20 WORLD CUP WEST INDIES & USA 2024 JUNE 1-29 — AMERICAN EXPEDITION

FIRE up your laptops. Start the EA Sports video game, and bat in a T20 match with India as your team. The conditions are hard at the Daren Sammy National Cricket Stadium, Gros Islet, St Lucia. And pick whatever level of difficulty you want. You are up against Australia. But worry not. Because this is the day Rohit Sharma shows up for you.

This is no exaggeration. Everyone knows when Rohit gets going, there are not many who make bowlers look as ridiculous as he does. It might not happen very often, especially in the shortest format. His T20I and IPL record is below-par compared to many others. But when it does, he toys with the best of the best. On Monday, it was Mitchell Starc's turn.

It was only the third over of the Super 8s match between India and Australia. A lot is at stake in this contest, especially for the latter. On a surface that has had little help for bowlers this WC, Mitchell Marsh won the toss and put India in. The build-up for this match had been laced with India's loss against the same opponent in the 2023 ODI WC final. Seven months later, the Men In Blue had the chance to help push Australia towards elimination. As much as that was the narrative, players couldn't get it in their heads. They need to stay in the present and continue with the template they have had so far; attack at all costs. This template has had its share of victims like Virat Kohli, but he and the team have persisted. Kohli continued the same when he tried to pull Josh Hazlewood in the second over to get out for his second duck of the tournament. And now, Rohit was up against Starc, who had conceded five runs in his first.

First ball of the third over, Starc pitched it full outside off-stump. Rohit stood there and lofted the pacer over the cover boundary. Six. Second ball, a littler wider. This time, Rohit went with the flow and sent it over cover-point for a six. Third ball, tonked above mid-on for four. Fourth ball, Rohit held his shape and lofted the fuller delivery over cow corner. 22 runs in four balls. But Rohit was just getting started. He finished the over with another six, taking the tally to 29. As Hazlewood finished a quiet over, Rohit took on Pat Cummins in the next. First ball off the fifth over, the pacer was slog swept out of the ground — a 100m six that hit the roof. That is when rain interrupted the play briefly, but Rohit was in no mood to stop. He would hit Cummins for two more fours in the over, getting to his fifty in 19 balls. The scoreboard told its own story — India 52/1; Rohit 50*.

Now, this was not just some blind slogging and hitting big sixes irrespective of the lengths. Rohit was anticipating the lengths, he was playing with the fields. And of course, he had all the time in the world. To understand the zone Rohit was in, look at the three boundaries (two fours and a six) that came off Marcus Stoinis. Rohit charged at him first, and then created room to pull into the stands. The final shot — a step down the crease and loft through covers for a six. This was a day where one could only sit back and marvel at the ball striking of Rohit.

Rishabh Pant got out, but it didn't matter. Suryakumar Yadav (31 off 16) and Rohit kept going. They added 123 runs from 57 balls before Rohit got out on 92 from 41. The rest, including extras, contributed 82 (65) as India finished with 205/5 in 20 overs. The total was enough and India secured a 24-run win, thanks to Jasprit Bumrah (1/29) and Kuldeep Yadav (2/24). Australia will advance if Bangladesh beat Afghanistan by a margin that is lesser than 62 runs. Should the latter win, they will go through. Brief scores: India 205/5 in 20 ovs (Rohit 92, Yadav 31; Starc 2/45) bt Australia 181/7 in 20 ovs (Head 72; Arshdeep 3/37).

Unbeaten SA eliminate Windies, enter semis

NORTH SOUND: South Africa qualified for the semifinals of the T20 World Cup with a three-wicket win via the Duckworth Lewis method over West Indies in a rain-truncated Super 8s match. Put in to bat, West Indies rode on Roston Chase's 52 off 42 balls to post 135/ 8. In reply, South Africa were 15/2 in two overs when rain stopped play. The match was truncated by three overs with South Africa being set with a revised target of 123 in 17 overs which they chased that down in 16.1 overs. Brief scores: WI 135/8 in 20 ovs (Chase 52; Shamsi 3/27) lost to SA 124/7 in 16.1 ovs (Stubbs 29; Chase 3/12, Russell 2/19).

Bielsa effect: Uruguay abuzz & showing plenty of promise

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

Darwin Nunez celebrates his goal. (Inset) Uruguay's head coach Marcelo Bielsa | AFP

LATE on Sunday night, Uruguay were putting the finishing touches on a commanding performance against Panama in their first match of the Copa America. Some familiar names did a lot of the running as the South Americans ran out 3-1 winners, with Darwin Nunez putting in a sort of performance not unlike when he wears the Liverpool jersey (five shots, one goal, two big chances missed). Behind Nunez, the tireless Manuel Ugarte (PSG) and Fede Valverde (Real Madrid) were the building blocks. Down the wings, Nahitan Nandez (right back) and Matias Vina (left), who walked away with a goal and an assist, were a constant threat, buzzing around like super-charged mosquitoes waiting for any opportunity to bomb forward. The pair had passes into the final third and created six scoring chances. In short, it wasn't a surprise when Vina, who plays his club football for Flamengo, walked away with the man of the match award.

What, though, was generally surprising was Uruguay's very proactive brand of football. In a side known for grizzled veterans at the back (think Diego Godin), this was a huge departure from the norm. But then, when the man in the dugout is Marcelo Bielsa this is the norm. High on energy and adrenaline, constant pressing, vertical passing, getting the full backs into play... it was a trademark display from a Bielsa-coached side. The most commendable part of the display was the team's buy-in to Bielsa's very unique methods. His demands are legendary (when Everton approached him post his stint with Leeds, the Argentine wanted to first take control of the youth side before taking charge of the senior set-up six months down the line). Anyway, most international managers prefer to play a reactive brand of football as it's very hard to coach a philosophy that's dependent on high press and full of attacking verve. Because they don't have the luxury of training the players round the year, most of them focus on the defensive side of the game before building attacking cohesion and patterns.

But then Bielsa is unlike most coaches. He's so influenced by his dogma, it's usually his way or the highway (thanks to this philosophy, he has faced issues at club level so far). Uruguay, though, have adopted his way and the proof has been there since he was appointed to the post last May. The South Americans, after enduring a below par World Cup in 2022 (they failed to get out of their group), wanted a shock. Bielsa has given that to them, famously beating Brazil and Argentina in the ongoing World Cup qualifiers. In the process, he has also channelled Nunez's chaos (he's the leading goal-scorer in CONMEBOL's qualifying stage with five) while managing to retain his enigma. His body of work (Pep Guardiola and Zinedine Zidane, to name two highly successful modern coaches, are big fans of it) hasn't delivered the big titles (one of his biggest, till date, came with the Argentine side at the 2004 Olympics) but do not rule out a proper tilt at this year's Copa. Argentina, most of whom tasted global gold in Qatar in 2022, are the favourites but their neighbours aren't behind by a lot. Brazil can never be ruled out of contention but this iteration is in transition.

Risk & reward for hosts Germany against Swiss

AGENCIES @ Frankfurt

THEY all jumped for the ball in a frantic late push for the goal that would save Germany from their first loss at the European Championship, against an impressive Switzerland team.

Defender Nico Schlotterbeck leaped up, next to the even more imposing centre-back Antonio Rudiger, who reached highest of all. In front of them both was substitute Niclas Fullkrug.

The German trio was circled by three Swiss opponents trying to protect a 1-0 lead two minutes into stoppage time. Six pairs of feet off the ground in unison, straining to be the one to head the ball.

It was Fullkrug who won the contest, guiding the ball crossed from another substitute David Raum back across Switzerland goalkeeper Yann Sommer into the top corner of the net. The match ended 1-1. "We risked a lot in this phase because we could have conceded a second goal," Germany coach Julian Nagelesmann said about throwing his defenders into attack. "Who doesn't dare to risk, doesn't get to draw."

Germany had already advanced to the Round of 16 before kick-off on Sunday, but a draw felt like a win in the circumstances.

VARGA NEEDS SURGERY

WEILER-SIMMERBERG: Hungary forward Barnabas Varga was set to undergo surgery after breaking several facial bones in a collision with Scotland's goalkeeper during their game at the European Championship. The match, which ended 1-0 in favour of Hungary, was halted for nearly 10 minutes so Varga could get treatment after colliding with Angus Gunn in the second half.

SUNDAY'S RESULTS: Germany 1-1 Switzerland; Hungary 1-0 Scotland.

Stimac's conduct has reinforced our decision: AIFF

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

FORMER India football head coach Igor Stimac had pulled no punches while making several allegations against the All India Football Federation (AIFF) in a social media interaction recently. In response to Stimac's comments, the AIFF, in a statement on Monday, said that his conduct has only reinforced their decision to terminate his contract.

"Mr Stimac's communication — apparently made with the sole intent of maligning the AIFF and showing its personnel in poor light — is not befitting of a professional who has served the organisation for over 5 years and was extended the full support of the AIFF during this period. This conduct has only reinforced the AIFF's belief that the right decision was made, with just cause, to terminate his contract and move forward in the interests of Indian football," the statement read.

After India's exit from FIFA World Cup Qualifiers, Stimac's contract was terminated by the AIFF. The former Croatian international was especially critical of president Kalyan Chaubey and had claimed that the latter never cared about the sport. Moreover, Stimac had also said that the federation did not consult him while finalising events. The AIFF, while clarifying those allegations, said, "During his tenure, Mr Stimac was provided complete support by the AIFF. The AIFF president had 5 meetings with him in 18 months (Kolkata national camp – September 2022; Bengaluru SAFF Championship – July 2023; Hangzhou(China) – September 2023; Kolkata – March 2024 and Guwahati – March 2024). Mr. Stimac was never denied access to any AIFF official, and had several virtual and telephonic conversations with them during his tenure. Mr. Stimac was given full autonomy to function, including selections of venues and support staff."

Assam's Parag gets India call-up

SQUAD

Gill (C), Jaiswal, Ruturaj, Abhishek, Rinku, Sanju (WK), Jurel (WK), Nitish, Parag, Washington, Bishnoi, Avesh, Khaleel, Mukesh, Deshpande.

RIYAN Parag became the first male cricketer from Assam to get an India call-up as the BCCI announced the 15-member squad for the five-T20I tour of Zimbabwe which will begin on July 6.

In a white-ball series that will begin in a week after the ongoing T20 World Cup, the Indian team will be led by Shubman Gill with as many as five players earning their maiden T20I call-up after a stellar show in the Indian Premier League. Sunrisers Hyderabad's Abhishek Sharma and Nitish Reddy, Rajasthan Royals' Parag and Dhruv Jurel and Chennai Super Kings' pacer Tushar Deshpande have been included in the Indian squad for the first time. Among them, Parag got selected for the Indian team after consistent performances in the domestic tournaments and the 2024 IPL. Many of these youngsters who had impressed in the IPL have been a part of the preparation camp at the National Cricket Academy.

Apart from the youngsters who broke into the team, the 15-member squad also features off-spinning all-rounder Washington Sundar, leg-spinner Ravi Bishnoi, Rinku Singh and Khaleel Ahmed, who are a part of the India reserves. Sanju Samson and Yashasvi Jaiswal, who are in West Indies for the World Cup, are also a part of the team and will travel to Zimbabwe from the Caribbean.

The interesting bit about the squad is that Gill has not been an India regular in the format even when Rohit Sharma and Virat Kohli are not playing. The squad also has Ruturaj Gaikwad, who captained India in the Asian Games to a gold medal. The Punjab batter named captain could be indications of a long-term succession plan as he is one of the few batters to be a part of the team across formats.

Although it is not yet confirmed, it seems likely that NCA chief VVS Laxman might travel with the team to Zimbabwe as the BCCI waits to announce their new head coach. Former cricketers WV Raman and Gautam Gambhir had been interviewed for the job. Whoever gets the role might travel with the team to Sri Lanka after the India series.

Two men allegedly tried to blackmail family of F1 great Schumacher

AP @ Berlin

TWO men who allegedly tried blackmailing the family of Formula 1 great Michael Schumacher were detained earlier this month, German prosecutors said on Monday. Prosecutors in the western German city of Wuppertal said the suspects told employees of the family that they were in possession of files that the family wouldn't want to be published, German news agency dpa reported. The two men allegedly demanded a payment of several million euros or said they would otherwise publish the files on the darknet, prosecutors said.

As alleged proof, the suspects sent some files to the family, prosecutors said. They didn't give further details on the content of the files.

Thanks to "technical measures," investigators were able to track down the suspects, a father and a son from Wuppertal, ages 53 and 30, who are both on probation in another case, dpa reported. They were detained on June 19 on a supermarket parking lot in the central town of Gross-Gerau and are in custody. Their names weren't given in line with German privacy rules. "If convicted, they face a fine or prison sentence of up to five years," chief public prosecutor Wolf-Tilman Baumert said, according to dpa.

Schumacher suffered a near-fatal brain injury while skiing in the French Alps at Meribel in December 2013. He had fallen and his head hit a rock, which split open his helmet. Since being transferred from a hospital in September 2014, the seven-time F1 champion has been cared for privately at a family home in Switzerland.

The 55-year-old Schumacher retired from F1 in 2012 after winning 91 races, and five straight titles with Ferrari from 2000-04. The German driver's other two titles were with Benetton in 1994 and 1995. Last month, Schumacher's family won legal action against the publisher of a magazine which printed an artificial intelligence-generated interview with the F1 great.

Fossil found

New species of ancient human was announced after finding a massive fossilised skull — Homo longi "Dragon Man" from China in 2021

THE DISCOVERY

The skull was first found by labourers while building a bridge over the Songhua River in Harbin as late as 1933. Back at the time, the region was governed by Japan

FEATURES

The skull, which is about nine inches long and more than six inches wide, is big enough to hold a brain that is similar in size to that of a modern human

RESULTS

The team's study suggested that the Chinese fossils were more closely linked to our own species than to Neanderthals, bringing a new perspective

What began as puppy love while caring for her son Rohan Murty's doggo turned into a life-long love affair with not just pets, but with writing about them, too, for B'luru-based author Sudha Murty, who released Gopi's Day Out over the weekend

PET PROJECT

Sudha Murty with husband Narayana Murthy and her Golden Retriever Gopi at the launch event | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

POOJA DAS

FROM little five-year olds to the adults in the audience – everyone was up early in the morning on a Sunday no less to catch a glimpse of the famed Gopi, the protagonist of author Sudha Murty's children's book series The Gopi Diaries. The energetic Golden Retriever was accompanying Murty on the release of her new book Gopi's Day Out (HarperCollins; ₹399), where she was accompanied by her husband, Infosys co-founder Narayana Murthy.

In this fourth addition to the series, the story begins with Gopi getting lost, venturing beyond the comfort of his home and experiencing the harsh realities faced by street dogs. "This book is written from Gopi's perspective as he encounters the life of a street dog. He comes to know so many difficulties of other dogs because he's always sheltered and pampered and has always been a VIP dog," says Murty while in conversation with Shinie Antony, writer and co-founder of Bangalore Literature Festival.

Hailing from a family of farmers and having grown up surrounded by animals, pets were an integral part of Murty's upbringing. "I grew up with a dog by the name Raja and then we had Julie. But Mr Narayana Murthy was very scared of dogs so we never had one in our family for 40 years." It was Gopi, originally son Rohan Murty's dog, who changed everything for her. "I really fell in love with him instantly. He was 5kg and today he is 48kg. I can't even lift him anymore," chuckles Murty.

Talking about balancing reality and fiction in her stories, she says that while the first three books in The Gopi's Diaries series are entirely true, Gopi's Day Out intertwines factual events with imaginative elements. "Parts of it are true but they are not sequential. For instance, one day it was Vani, a street dog who was brought in by Gopi, who went missing and I underwent the trauma of not having her in the house. That inspired the events in the book," says Murty.

Murty, the mother-in-law of British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak, emphasises the importance of compassion, a recurring theme in her books. "Everybody thinks only about themselves. But this planet belongs to everyone. Birds, trees, and animals," she says. Through Gopi's experiences, she aims to instil a sense of empathy and responsibility in her readers, especially children. "When you grow up with animals, you understand what helplessness is. You have to grow up with compassion," she adds.

Her simple storytelling, set against the backdrop of Indian culture, fills a void that she herself felt as a child. "I was a Kannada-medium student and it was very difficult to find good children's books except Enid Blyton. Her books are beautiful, but they're set in a different country. For instance, the setting of the Famous Five series in caves doesn't work in Indian settings," she explains, adding, "We did not have many stories in English in Indian settings like Diwali, Ganpati, and things like that. So, I probably started writing from that place, where language is simple. Something that connects to the Indian culture and is familiar."

USDC Eyes Global Expansion and Technological Integration in Education Sector

Exploring insights from Tom Joseph, Co-founder of USDC, on tackling challenges and shaping the future of online education amidst evolving EdTech trends and strategic growth initiatives.

Can you throw some light on the present scenario of the Ed-tech industry?

The Indian Edtech industry emerged as a beacon of innovation but is now facing a shift from rapid growth to continued setbacks. Its initial appeal arose from its ability to revolutionise education and accommodate to various learning styles. However, the recent fall of prominent Ed-tech unicorns, largely due to inflated valuations and unsustainable expansion, cast shadows of caution. Over-reliance on capital influx without solid monetisation strategies triggered this downfall. Moving forward, recalibration seems necessary, with an emphasis on quality above quantity, the development of sustainable business models, and the use of technology to enable personalised and accessible learning. The industry's resilience lies in adaptive strategies, ethical practices, and a renewed focus on educational impact over short-term gains.

Given today's EdTech scenario, what strategy should EdTech players adopt to overcome public indifference?

EdTech companies can combat public apathy with some precise strategic plans. They must first identify and analyse their target audience to focus on who will benefit the most, such as students, educators, or professionals, and understand their unique needs. A demographic analysis considering age, location, income, and education levels will help in creating personalised content that resonates.

The priority should be on delivering high-quality education rather than merely expanding the user base, as this builds trust and loyalty.

Developing skill-based programs tailored to current industry demands can enhance job readiness for students. Engaging strategies like online workshops, webinars, interactive sessions, and social media campaigns featuring success stories and educational tips are essential.

Additionally, interactive online campaigns, marketplace, contests, giveaways, and partnerships with educational influencers can further boost interest and engagement. By implementing these strategies, EdTech companies can foster a more engaged and interested user base.

This algorithm uses data analysis to match learners with programs that fit their interests and career goals. By integrating technology this way, USDC boosts the relevance and efficiency of its educational offerings.

Any future plans of USDC?

By embracing technology, USDC is moving towards a strong focus on AI, ML, Analytics, and new-age MBA programmes, alongside a wide range of elective courses.

USDC is aiming to expand its reach overseas, especially in Europe, East and Southeast Asia, and is committed to helping partner universities provide top-notch digital learning infrastructure and develop content for online education to make virtual learning experiences even more seamless and interactive.

DEAR LIFE

Preeti Shenoy
Insta: @preeti.shenoy

Novelist, Illustrator, Speaker.

I want to get married to the right guy, but I am constantly disappointed. The ones I approach either reject me or are committed. What do I do?

ASK AN XPERT

Marrying the 'right person at the right time' is something that most people desire. Society further places pressure on the individual by emphasising the 'ideal age' for marriage. This often leads to a sense of desperation. In reality, there is no singular 'right person' or 'right time.' We might be convinced that someone is perfect for us. But the fact is, every single day we are evolving as individuals, and so are they. Marriage requires constant effort from both partners. I firmly believe that everything happens in its own time. No matter how much you try to force it, if the time isn't right, it won't happen. Do not put pressure on yourself to get married. Don't keep approaching guys with marriage as your primary goal. Focus on your ambitions and all the other things that you want to achieve in life. Eventually, marriage will happen. Remember, getting married is the easy part; staying married is the real challenge.

VIRASANA ON BLOCK

(HERO POSE ON BLOCK)

In Sanskrit, 'vira' means brave person or hero, and 'asana' means pose. In this pose, a yoga block is additionally used in Virasana, which is a relatively basic seated posture. This asana stretches the ankles, knees, and thighs and greatly improves the body's flexibility. It also strengthens the arches of the feet. Spiritually, it activates the Muladhara (root chakra), located at the base of the spine. Energising the Muladhara promotes a sense of security and is also associated with health, passion, and abundance. Additionally, it is beneficial for those who suffer from high blood pressure, digestive issues, indigestion, asthma, and menopausal symptoms.

STEPS

- Release from Sukhasana Variation Side (Easy Pose Variation Side) and sit in Virasana (Hero Pose).
- Sit on a yoga block to keep the spine elevated. While seated here, keep the back and the shoulders straight and relaxed.
- If the knees hurt, you can place a cushion below them. Stay in this pose for about six breaths to relax and connect.
- Inhale and begin with the practice of meditation, chanting Om for about 18 rounds. Go slow and steady while focusing on the breathing process.
- Take breaks if the breathing process gets difficult.
- The crown of your head should point to the ceiling, and you should look straight ahead.
- To release, relieve your feet, ankles, and knees, and shake your legs. Relax.

BENEFITS

- Stretches the hips, thighs, knees, ankles, and feet.
- Regular practice of this pose improves circulation and relieves tired legs.
- Strengthens the foot arches, relieving flat feet.
- Helps improve digestion and relieves gas.
- Helps women relieve their menopause symptoms.
- Improves the body posture.
- A therapeutic pose for asthma and high blood pressure.
- Helps stretch the thighs, knees, ankles, and feet.
- This asana can be practised while meditating.
- Relieves the tiredness in the legs.
- Increases the blood circulation in the legs.
- Like Vajrasana, this pose also helps activate the inner organs and improve digestion.
- Students suffering from gas problems can regularly practise this.
- During pregnancy, it helps to reduce swelling of the legs (through the second trimester).
- This asana is useful for patients suffering from asthma and high blood pressure.

LIMITATIONS

- Students who are suffering from any problems in the heart, thigh, ankle, leg, back, neck, or have joint pain, migraines, or spinal disorders should avoid this pose.
- If the practitioners have chronic pain, inflammation, or a recent hip or knee injury or disc hernia, they should avoid it.

Textile designer and daughter of renowned artist Gurudas Shenoy, city-based Rakhee Shenoy, on collaborating with international clients while staying true to her roots...

AN intricate dance of threads and texture can transform mere fabric into a canvas that celebrates cultural heritage and contemporary innovation. It's where tradition meets modernity and the space where textile designer and artist Rakhee Shenoy (29) thrives. "My medium while creating art is mixed-media textile. For me, the canvas is fabric; it is not something that is stretched and painted on. My canvas comes in a roll. I experiment with embroidery, digital print, hand painting, and more. People may wonder why I don't stick to one, but for me, there's comfort in the mixed media space," shares Shenoy, the daughter of renowned artist Gurudas Shenoy.

Artworks by Rakhee Shenoy

After graduating from the Royal College of Art in London, Shenoy's return to India was marked by the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic. "I got the last flight out of the United Kingdom to come to India, and I finished my last few months of graduation from home. I took part in the London Craft Week, which taught me how to use space effectively to display my artwork," recalls Shenoy, who then went onto exhibit her work in prestigious exhibitions in The Netherlands and Belgium. She has done international collaborations, including with big names like Universal Studios. "The interesting thing about working on projects for Universal Studios is the explosion of colours. They don't limit themselves to just a few shades; it's always 40 colours and above. It's challenging, but you are also just pushed to create something beautiful," she shares.

A piece from the collection Celestial Weavings

Shenoy's work further extends to freelancing for Aranyani, a luxury bag designer that sells in London, as well as Vaya, a city-based textiles studio. For the latter, she has designed interior fabric collections, including Celestial Weavings, which launched recently and reflects her unique blend of art and design. "Celestial Weavings for Vaya was inspired by larger-than-life space phenomena and terrains of Earth. I was inspired by NASA and ISRO images; I created woven textures that capture movement in various lighting," elaborates Shenoy. A significant aspect of Shenoy's identity as an artist is her deep connection to her roots. "When it comes to design, working with international brands is always fun. Because I think somewhere the international brands always look at the fact that I come from Indian heritage, and they love the subtle Indian influences in my work, in terms of my colour sense, or design perspective, without enforcing any stereotypes," she says.

Having worked on multiple projects as a textile consultant, Shenoy wants to focus on her current art practice after setting up a studio in the city. "I have a family history of artists with my grandfather (GS Shenoy) and father being artists – I have always grown up around art. I feel like, at some point, I was always meant to be in the art space," says Shenoy, adding, "I have two shows coming up this year. This time, the concept is based on family, where I come from, and the textures and colours that I associate with family. I think I will call it Ties Beyond Cloth."

THE TOUCH AND FEEL OF THE OLD ALBUM

THE big old iron trunk is the centrepiece of the home dining room. It sits there, quiet, as people walk about or eat at the table. But when it's opened, a treasure trove of our family's history, parables, and tales comes alive, in the form of a large collection of photo albums – relics with eternal emotional significance.

There are those lazy and cosy weekends, even better the rainy ones when over a cup of hot coffee, I fling open the heavy lid of the trunk and fill my space with the scenes, anecdotes and experiences that shaped me.

There are numerous albums, some as small as my palm, and others as large as bank ledgers. There is a soothing musty whiff, from a hundred years ago, when my grandsires posed for a photograph. Each album has its story, celebrating a marriage, birthday, vacation, graduation, sports day and theatre play, or simple amusements. And I sit at that table, gazing at every photograph and soaking in every second how its subjects and actions might have unfolded.

Old albums are yesteryear photographic memory banks. I love drifting into the past and reliving all its fond evocations and learnings, and the photographs that have been carefully preserved, to hold and behold, help me drift. There is something mystical about the old photo album. With the depths of black and white, and the melange of colours, it literally revives frozen moments in myriad perspectives.

A few days ago, a school friend shared some pictures from 1998-2002, through WhatsApp. The photographs, which included my last day of Class 10 and our antics on the playground, have lost some gloss, but still resonate charm. I was quick to ask myself, "How are all my friends and teachers doing?" Photographs possess that magic wand to transport your mind down memory lane, allowing you to relive moments as originally as you experienced them, while also triggering reminiscences of people you long left behind. You meet dozens of individuals, get friendly with them, and then suddenly, they have exited your life. Then one fine day, a small photograph of you and an old acquaintance pulls at your brainstrings, and you get enveloped by the bliss of happy recollections.

ILLUSTRATION: MANDAR PARDIKAR

For Indian families, album-viewing is a hobby. We love peering into wedding albums, while as children, we loved observing film negatives. Albums bring families together, not just to sit and look into them, but also to cherish irreplaceable memories. As a child, I would spend hours studying each photograph – counting the number of people in it, their expressions, clothes, and surroundings. I would spot an elderly man somewhere in the distant background, and wonder, "Who was he, and where is he now?" Finding hidden little things in photographs became a game. And there was a horde of photos, which meant a very large play area to conquer. Even today, I thoroughly scan photographs of me, trying to remember what my day was like then, what I did, where I went, where is this t-shirt I'm wearing, and so on.

Photographs also reveal how time flies, how much we have grown, and enable us to revisit better times in the past, to help us cope with the present. Since they freeze memories as tactile objects we can literally hold, they also bring solace during lonely struggles.

Generations of children coming into this world, going to school, and one-day becoming grandparents, are beautifully photographed and pieced together in an album. Captured by cameras, which used film rolls with limited photo space, each click had to be delightfully priceless, of a particular moment, cementing it for posterity. In an era where unlimited pictures and selfies are captured on handheld mobile phone cameras, and shared on social media for likes and shares, the humble handheld album remains an evergreen symbol of a time paused – because you want it to last forever. A candid, personal, illustrated family history book for the coffee table!

WHY, HY

WHEN we are frustrated with our partner, or any loved one, we often end up asking "Why?" questions when frustrated. "Why did you do this? Why don't you listen to me? Why can't you just do what I ask for once?" or variations of such questions. Most times, these questions are rhetorical and there is no real conversation possible. Even if the person this is directed at actually tries answering the question ("Because I choose to," "Because I was listening to myself," "Because I don't agree with you and you are not the boss of me,") it really won't matter at all because the "Why?" questions in these contexts are nothing to do with wanting to know something, and everything to do with just sharing one's frustrations.

We could just say we are frustrated, annoyed, irritated or anything else we are feeling, along with what's upsetting us, but we do not do that, do we? We don't say, "Hey. It is upsetting to me that despite my being so clear that I did not want this, you went and did it anyway. It makes me feel disrespected, and I really do not like it that you did this. I need this to be made right," or anything to that effect. We just find it so hard to communicate fully when we are upset. The "Why?" questions become a shortcut to everything we want to say but are feeling our feelings far too much to actually articulate what we need to articulate. Sometimes, it is not even a full question but just that word with a whole lot of emotion behind it.

If we were frustrated by people we didn't really care about, we might be OK to do whatever it takes, but when it is someone we have loved, we have chosen to be with and are now trying to continue to love despite everything, it really is very hard. Our feelings clash – on one hand we want to love them and on another, we just do not like what's happening at all. In that clash between not liking, and yet loving, we just seem to get reduced to yelling and screaming, or crying and weeping, and make it really difficult to communicate anything, and stay very much in a sad/angry state, waiting for amends to be made, which might never come. So, when the clash between loving and not liking is at the centre of such helpless frustration, what can be the way out?

The answer, though not a comforting one, is a simple one – be willing to lose what you love.

The challenges come when we put ourselves in a helpless position by telling ourselves we cannot lose this love no matter what. Paradoxically, the willingness to lose will likely be what helps us keep it. When the seriousness of the consequences is clear, there is greater space to be seen and heard, and therefore to negotiate. Next time you find yourself wanting to wail, "Why?" in frustration, take a deep breath and try this; you might just surprise yourself.

'MARYADE PRASHNE IS A BATTLE OF POWER VERSUS WILLPOWER'

Pradeepa and Nagaraja Somayaji

says Pradeepa of Sakkath Studio, who talks about the realistic revenge drama directed by Nagaraja Somayaji and its ensemble cast, while also emphasising that it's high time to deliver what audiences crave rather than trying to prove ourselves

Cast of Maryade Prashne

A SHARADHAA

RJ PRADEEPA'S SAKKATH STUDIO, the innovative production house behind pioneering web series like Loose Connection (Sunil Raoh), By Mistake (Poornachandra Mysuru and Siri Ravikumar), and Honeymoon (Nagabhusshan and Sanjana Anand), is now stepping into film production. Pradeepa, who previously directed the film Huchudugaru, is making his debut as a producer with Maryade Prashne, directed by Nagaraja Somayaji.

"With Sakkath Studio, we initially aimed to create a concept like TVF, introducing high-quality Kannada web series with new faces and superior production values," Pradeepa explains. "However, the pandemic forced us to sell our content to other platforms, while many actors and directors from our web series have moved on to successful mainstream careers."

Taking a brief hiatus from Sakkath Studio, Pradeepa worked at Zee Studios, gaining insights across various platforms, including cinema, television, and web series. After one and a half years, he decided to restart Sakkath Studio, leading to the creation of Maryade Prashne. The makers, who have completed shooting, are currently looking for the perfect release date. Recently, they released a song from Maryade Prashne in collaboration with Kannada pop sensation ALL OK. The song, capturing the aspirations and lives of middle-class boys, offers a vibrant and fresh take on the middle-class anthem, reflecting the film's theme beautifully.

Pradeepa shares that the project began as a writing endeavour which became a film after director Nagaraj came on board. "Our first focus was ensuring that the film resonates with both audiences and critics," Pradeepa notes. "We aimed for a cinematic experience that blends candid storytelling with a realistic narrative." Based on real incidents, the film weaves together an ensemble cast primarily set in Bengaluru's Chamarajpet for the middle-class narrative and Indiranagar and Koramangala for the elite section. "This film explores the thin line between power and willpower, portraying both middle-class and elite perspectives," Pradeepa explains.

The diverse cast of Maryade Prashne includes Rakesh Adiga, a Bigg Boss contestant making a comeback, as someone working with a local MLA with political aspirations, Sunil Raoh as a delivery boy supporting his family, and Poornachandra Mysuru as a car driver with dreams of ownership. Other notable actors playing the middle-class characters include Rekha Kudligi, Nagendra Shah, and Teju Belawadi. The elite class characters will be essayed by Shine Shetty, Shravan, newcomer Hariharan, and Prabhu Mundkur, who plays the antagonist.

As they await the film's first copy to finalise the release date, Pradeepa highlights the importance of fresh content in the industry. "People should watch and encourage good actors, content, and teams striving to offer new experiences. We need to compete with other industries with realistic, relatable content. Audiences today can differentiate and identify good content; it's high time we deliver what they crave rather than trying to prove ourselves."

Technically, the film boasts Arjun Ramu as music director and Sandeep Valluri, known for his work in Gowli, as cinematographer. New talents include Prateek Mahesh as colourist and Arjun and Sanketh as editors.

> We need to compete with other industries with realistic, relatable content. Audiences today can differentiate and identify good content; it's high time we deliver what they crave rather than trying to prove ourselves

Hemant Hegde considered the iconic title Naa Ninna Bidalaare (1979), a cult horror film starring Lakshmi and Anant Nag. However, he clarified that his film has no connection with the original except for the title.

While he initially planned to helm a murder mystery titled Network, Hegde switched to horror due to the saturation of murder mysteries on OTT platforms. Hemant, who also plays the lead role as a software engineer, has written the screenplay along with Gajendra Gunjur.

Naa Ninna Bidalaare will feature Bhavana Ramanna, a middle-aged woman, in an intense demon role set in the 1980s. "Having grown up in a Brahmin household in Shivamogga, this role is deeply personal to me. Though I've known Hemant for a long time, this is my first opportunity to work under his direction," the actor shares.

Naa Ninna Bidalaare will feature actor Apurva starring opposite Hemant. The film will also star Bollywood actor Makarand Deshpande, Sharath Lohitashwa, Suchendra Prasad, Kishore, and Nassar in pivotal roles.
